1,884 Leave Harvard.
Rabbits and Humans.
Throw Away Ambition.
Sound in Movies.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

HARVARD gave degrees yesterday to 1,884 students. Of four young men attaining highest scholastic standing, taking their bachelor's decree, summa cum laude, two were Jewish boys. That should modify a certain Harvard attitude on one race question.

THE French say "travel forms youth when it doesn't deform it." The same is true of a college education.

How many of the 1,884 young men are abler for having gone to college? How many leave with a keen desire for knowledge? How many with a conviction that they know almost everything?

How many would have been far ahead on the road to success if they had spent their college years at work?

CHARLES F. BRUSH, able citizen, inventor of the arc light, sets aside $500,000 to keep down excess population and improve the race.

Mr. Brush advocates stringent birth control, sterilization of the physically and mentally unfit.

MANY think they can improve on Providence and the workings of nature in regard to population.

Nature knows how to get rid of the unfit. The important thing is to have crowds of humans from which to select exceptional men and women to do the real work.

HOWEVER, nature's methods change. China, that once drowned the girl babies, now keeps them alive.

Plagues that killed off millions a year are fought by modern science, and population thus increases.

Hunger and plague used to kill off the weak, as war killed off those that were too combative.

If civilization stops war, and science conquers disease, it may be necessary, artificially, to prevent humans multiplying as the rabbits did in Australia.

SIR JAMES BARRIE tells Rhodes scholars not to try for "greatness." The advice was humorous, probably. Try for greatness produces desirable mediocrity. Men "aim high to shoot low" as the illiterate colored man said when he asked Grover Cleveland to make him librarian of Congress. He really wanted a job as porter.

A baby cries for the moon and is satisfied with a cookey. Youth reaches for greatness and is content with modest achievement and a place on the golf course.

WINFIELD R. SHEEHAN, who knows about moving pictures, says screens will be much bigger for large-sized theaters now building everywhere. That will make it necessary to revise production methods.

Most important for budding genius, he says the "talking movie" will create a new army of scenario writers, knowing how to make sound effective in pictures.

In a detective story, noise of a creaking board, or a shot, might be more effective than the hero's smile.

Mr. Sheehan believes that the pictures with sound will double moving picture attendance.

SECRETARY WORK, of the Interior Department, will conduct Secretary Hoover's presidential campaign. No better man could be chosen.

Like Mr. Hoover, Mr. Work knows this country, understands the work of development that the country needs and is in full sympathy with Secretary Hoover's plans and past accomplishments.

Mr. Hoover is fortunate in having Senator Curtis for a running mate, and doubly fortunate with Secretary Work directing his campaign.

"BIG" STEEL and Bethlehem Steel Corporation combine with others in forming the "Steel Export Association of America." United States Steel is the biggest steel concern in the world. That combination of important companies is needed to compete with European nations and preserve American foreign markets.

CHILDISH talk of "necessary competition" and prattle about keeping business from getting "too big" are out of date.

Where nations combine to monopolize world business, great American units must combine for self defense.

Possibly some one will find a way to help our farmers form such a combination. They need it.

BALL, BEST ON FIRST DAY, IN SLUMP

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

OLYMPIA FIELDS, Ill., June 22.—Willie MacFarlane, tall, bespectacled scholar of the links, harked back to his championship days of 1925, this morning, when he shot the second round of the national open golf championship in a 38-36-74 to take a nominal lead over the eld. His two-day total was 147, but, with entries like Jones and Hagen yet to be heard from, Willie's ascendancy was not regarded as an altogether permanent one.

At this point, however, MacFaralne was all of four strokes beyond the second man, Frank Ball, Atlanta, who collapsed after his 70 of yesterday to take an 81 for a total of 151. MacDonald Smith also fell away from yesterday's form to take a 77 today for an aggre-

M'VICAR IS PICKED FOR BENCH

Nelson McVicar, of Tarentum, former judge of Common Pleas Court, has been recommended to fill the vacancy on the Federal Court bench caused by the retirement from active service of Judge W. H. S. Thomson, United States Senator David A. Reed announced today.

The recommendation by Senator Reed, considered as tantamount to appointment, has been forwarded to the Attorney General who in turn will submit it to President Coolidge. It will be a recess appointment to continue until the Senate meets in December when confirmation will be asked.

Senator Reed's announcement ends a spirited quest for appointment by 60 or more applicants.

Former Judge McVicar served on the Allegheny county bench from October, 1925, to January, 1928 under appointment of former Gov. Pinchot, but he was defeated for nomination in the Republican primaries last September. He was a member of the Legislature from 1915 to 1923 and is a member of the law firm of McVicar, Hazlett, Gardner & Gannon, one of the firm being District Attorney S. H. Gardner.

Mail Flier Killed in Crash

EMPORIA, Kan., June 22.—(AP.)—Wayne Neville, of Dallas, Tex., pilot on the Chicago-Dallas air mail route, was killed at 4 a. m. today when his plane ran into a severe windstorm and crashed near Lebo, Kan., 20 miles east of here.

Neville left Kansas City with the southbound air mail shortly after 3 a. m.

The storm which he encountered tore down wires in this section and did considerable property damage.

Pastor Takes It All Back After Seeing For Himself Why Brandon Hit Prohibition

WHEN Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, called the prohibition law a failure recently, ministers throughout the city became considerably aroused.

This morning the Rev. G. L. Powell, pastor of the McMasters Methodist Episcopal Church of Turtle Creek, accepted Magistrate Brandon's invitation to visit Morals Court and see for himself. Dr. Powell had offered a resolution condemning Brandon for his utterances.

Dr. Powell sat on the bench with Magistrate Brandon this morning. He heard some of the cases which came before the court and saw at first hand some of the derelicts who pass daily before the police official. He sat quietly by, taking it all in, and then, turning to Brandon, he said:

"I take back everything I said about Judge Brandon. If other ministers and people who have criticized him could come to Morals Court and spend one morning on his bench they would change their minds as I have. It seems to me his hands are tied with the way the laws are made.

MARY PICKFORD
(An artist's conception of how she looks with a bob.)

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—"I've cut my hair!" exclaimed Mary Pickford, and the multitude gasped. "But what of the curls?" breathlessly demanded the throng.

"Oh, I still have them," she replied. "They're all wrapped up ready to be pinned on if I ever need them. They were such a nuisance, you know, hanging down below my waist. So many women in New York were wearing long hair, but I can't see why any woman would want it long. It was a shock to Doug, of course." He almost wept when he saw it cut short. It's down to here"—just around the shoulder. "I had to have it done because I'm not going to be a little girl any more. Now I'm going after the boys!"

BONACH IN HUFF, QUITS DANCE

Albert Bonach, Pittsburgh's first national champion long distance hoofer, quit the incessant grind at Duquesne Garden this morning after a fainting spell and a tilt with his brother, Cora Dean, his partner, who shared honors with him in the first Motor Square Garden bunion derby, was forced to quit when her partner deserted her on the floor after completing 200 hours.

The constant shuffle which Bonach had endured for the last nine days is believed to have "gotten his nerve," and an argument among his trainers during the 4:30 o'clock rest period this morning proved too much for him. During the excitement, it is said, Bonach fainted, and while being revived by his brother, Albert is said to have resented the latter's slapping him on the back

Pirates Try Reds 3rd Time

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Smarting under their defeat of yesterday the Pirates today were anxious for the third game of the series with the Reds.

Burleigh Grimes, one of the game's outstanding pitchers, is all set to put his spitball on display before the Rhinelanders. The enemy is expected to counter with Ray Kolp.

The appearance of Kolp or any other righthander will bring George Grantham into action. Grantham has been out for almost four weeks.

Carmen Hill failed to hold a lead his mates gathered for him in the first inning of yesterday's fight. Hill was hammered off the mound in the second inning, it being the second time in two starts he has failed to last two rounds.

FIFTEEN FEET HEIGHT

Low lying places in Chartiers Valley from Walkers Mills to McDonald were inundated when Robinson Run and its tributaries came up out of their banks in the most serious flood in this area in 25 years. A 50-foot section of the concrete retaining wall along Noblestown road, Walkers Mills, was washed out and another 20-foot section threatens to go. At Oakdale, the flood reached a high level of 15 feet in the lowest part of the business section. In McDonald, several homes were washed from their foundations and Robert Purdy's home (above) collapsed.

4 TOWNS IN PATH OF RAGING TORRENT

Chartiers Valley, from Walkers Mill to McDonald, was swept with the most serious flood in 25 years last night.

The raging waters of Robinson Run and its tributaries washed out bridges, flooded homes and business places and otherwise spread terror among the residents, many of whom were trapped on the second floor of their homes.

An estimated damage of $500,000 followed in the wake of the torrent and hundreds of workmen were engaged this morning in clearing up the debris. The flood lasted only a few hours, the waters receding almost as suddenly as they came up.

McDonald and Oakdale were hardest hit. Several homes in North McDonald street, McDonald, were swept from their foundations, and a bridge in the center of the town was washed out, the water gouging its way beneath the street paving on either side of Robb's Run, usually a mere rivulet. The home hit probably harder than any in McDonald was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Purdy at 134 North McDonald street. The entire first floor was swept away and the building settled down in the soft ooze left by the waters.

DAMAGE

The Levine Furniture Company in McDonald also suffered heavy damage, the muddy waters sweeping through the storeroom and wrecking $15,000 to $20,000 worth of new furniture on the floor. Scores of women visited the store this morning in anticipation of flood bargains.

Two feet of water swept over Lincoln avenue, McDonald, the main business street, and flooded cellars. The Wiseberg department store, Sederoff tailor shop and Rhoades undertaking establishment were other heavy loosers. Out in the valley section two small bridges were washed away.

In Oakdale the waters reached a height of 15 feet at the lowest point in the business section. The automobile accessory store of Joseph Benalack, in Third street, was covered to the roof and other places flooded included two churches, the Oakdale National Bank, the postoffice, J. F. Moore & Sons Hardware Company, the Armstrong Cork plant, two chain stores and a battery plant.

FIREMEN HELP

Many homes were flooded, but most of the occupants got out without assistance. In some cases firemen were compelled to wade through the flood with ladders to rescue men, women and children from the second floors.

Along the Noblestown road, the creek swept over the lowlands, ma-

LOTTERY BARED; PUPILS VICTIMS

The uncovering of a gigantic lottery operating in Pittsburgh schools is reported by the Children's Service Bureau. One arrest has been made and Police Lieut. Charles T. Cahill is directing the gathering of evidence to be presented at a hearing next Tuesday at the Center Avenue Police Court.

The lottery is based on the figures of the New York clearing house.

"We have discovered the sale of many lottery tickets to minor children in schools," said Charles W. Collins, of the Protective Department of the Children's Service Bureau," and have gathered testimony from school pupils who bought tickets and other school pupils who sold them. Yesterday, before Alderman Patrick Cawley, on the South Side, we took testimony from a 16-year-old former high school boy, who told of his operation as a selling agent for the lottery.

CHILDREN VICTIMIZED

"Complaints have come in from various schools, the Moorhead, Rose and Franklin schools, particularly," added Mr. Collins, "and our investigation shows the lottery being conducted vigorously among the minor children. None of the children can afford to gamble, yet they are inveigled into spending their few pennies each day in trying to win this lottery. Their chances are about one in 400,000."

Lieut. Cahill said he made the arrest on suspicion, for he said he found several lottery tickets in possession of the accused and preferred a charge of maintaining gambling devices.

"We heard complaints about the sale of these lottery tickets," Lieut. Cahill said, "some of them intimating that school children were buying them. Personally, I have not been able to verify this report. However, I am conducting an investigation and expect to present the case at the hearing next Tuesday."

WET-DRY PROBLEM WORRIES DEMOCRATS

HOUSTON, June 22.—The prohibition issue stalked like a gaunt, gray ghost today among the early arriving delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

It was uppermost in everybody's mind; it was gossiped about and speculated upon in the hotel lobbies wherever politicians gathered; it figured in every brand of pre-convention speculation.

Only a negligible few of the arrivals, whether delegates or so-called leaders, believe that the fight over the presidential nomination will be anything but short and snappy. The opinion that Gov. Al Smith will be nominated within three ballots is so universal that it is accepted on all sides as a fact, with the possible exception of those backing Senator James A. Reed. The Reed managers still grimly in-

AMUNDSEN SOUGHT AT SEA

International News Service.

LONDON, June 22.—Capt. Riiser Larsen and Lieut. Luetzow Holm, the Norwegian aviators, have been instructed to make a systematic search of the west coast of Spitzbergen for Capt. Roald Amundsen, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen stated today.

Grave fears are now felt for the safety of the famous Arctic explorer, who, with Maj. Rene Guilbaud and three others, left Tromsoe, Norway, in a French plane to search for Gen. Umberto Nobile more than three and a half days ago and has not been heard from since.

With fears for Nobile's safety allayed for the time being, all relief efforts were today directed to the search for Amundsen and the 10 members of Nobile's expedition who were separated from the party of six sighted by Maj. Umberto Maddalena, the Italian aviator.

Captain Wistning, a member of Amundsen's original party, who is now en route to King's Bay aboard a ship, sent a message which added to the fears for Amundsen's safety. Wistning's messages stated that the explorer intended to fly to King's Bay first and had no intention of attempting to reach Nobile directly.

the possession and sale of lottery tickets among his pupils, said he found 70 out of 80 pupils in two units of the school had purchased tickets in the lottery.

KNOWN AS CLUB

"It is known as 'The Bull Dog Club' in our school," Principal Huff explained, "and the tickets range in price from one cent to 30 cents."

"I talked with many of the school children and found they had procured the tickets from youthful agents of the lottery, from confectionery stores and other places in the Hill district. None of these children can afford to waste their few pennies in gambling, many of them are under-nourished and extremely poor, yet they gamble in the high hopes of winning what is fancifully promised them, $5 on each cent ventured. We immediately called on the Children's Service Bureau."

GIRL SILENCED

"One of the pupils, a girl, with whom I talked on the subject, admitted she had purchased lottery tickets almost every day and was prepared to tell from whom she bought them, but suddenly closed up and would not talk about it. We took many tickets from little tots scarcely able to read and found the business of indulging in this pernicious and losing gamble quite active. In two units, comprising 80 pupils of the school, I found 70 either had tickets in their possession or had purchased them recently."

WORK WILL RESIGN BY JULY 1

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work, elected as chairman of the Republican Natoinal Committee to succeed ex-Senator William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, will name special advisory committees and district committees to carry the Hoover-Curtis campaign into every city, village and hamlet.

Dr. Work announced that at the end of the month he will resign from the cabinet to devote his entire time to Herbert Hoover's presidential campaign. He plans to leave within a week for the summer White House in Northern Wisconsin.

The Hoover-Curtis campaign was formally launched with the meeting of the special committee of 24 designed by the national convention to select the new officers of the national committee.

Headquarters for the national committee will be continued here for the present, with offices in Chicago and New York City. James W. Good, Hoover's pre-convention manager, is slated to be in charge of the Chicago office, while it is undecided who will have charge of the Eastern headquarters.

and telling him to "buck up." The trouble evidently was straightened out, temporarily at least, for Bonach and Miss Dean returned to the floor, but Bonach's nerves got the best of him again when the brother upbraided him for his apparent signs of weakness, and the dancer walked off the floor in a huff. Miss Dean, realizing her chances for a share in the prize money had gone with the desertion of her partner, retired to her training quarters and broke down in tears. She later was taken home by Bonach.

The defection of the Bonach-Dean combination was followed a short time later by the retirement of Jean Haggerty and George Hoffman, of Ravine street, North Side. Verna Grisak, of Butler street, and Ralph Bolland, Fallowfield street, quit at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Shortly after 1 o'clock Earl Capilupa, 115 Oakland avenue, abandoned his partner, Lois O'Malley, of 178 Forty-second street, and leaped over the railing surrounding the dance floor. He was disqualified. Capilupa was suffering from delusions, it was said. The loss of four couples today reduced the number of contestants to 16, who had completed 209 hours at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Bonach with his partner, Marian Jacque, won the first dance marathon held in Pittsburgh, in Danceland, Fifth avenue. Later when the marathon started in Motor Square Garden, he teamed up with Miss Dean, and was one of the winners. At present Miss Jacque is dancing in the Crandall marathon in New York.

Bonach and Miss Dean were looked upon as sure winners. They had learned how to conserve their strength and with their physical fitness were the odds-on favorites to cop the cash in the present contest.

One couple dropped out during the night in the Negro marathon in Motor Square Garden, cutting the list to six, with an elapsed time of 277 hours at 2 p. m.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 22.—Ten couples had completed 109 hours in the local dance marathon at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The dancers will be taken on the packet Liberty at midnight Saturday, being transported in vans from Greensburg to McKeesport.

WAR ROMANCE ON ROCKS HERE

A shattered war romance of a French Artillery captain and an English Red Cross nurse was bared in a divorce hearing here today.

Capt. Theodore Orrston fell in love with a nurse on the battlefields of France. Both came to America and later were married in Woodlawn in 1924, Orrston testified in support of his suit for divorce against Evaline Prichard Orrston.

As an engineer for the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, Orrston was sent to Port Arthur, Tex., in 1925, he testified. There his wife became homesick and went back to England, where her father is a member of Parliament. She refused to return, the husband said.

"I like America and its opportunities, but my wife didn't," said the war veteran, "and she wouldn't come back to me, though we had parted the best of friends. Had she done so, I probably would have returned to the old country with her."

Orrston at present is connected with the Aluminum Company of America and lives at 1712 Forbes street. Desertion was the basis of the suit.

2 BATTLE, KILL MAD DOG

Two North Side policemen battled with and finally killed a mad police dog which had terrorized the family of Frank Meyers, 1501 Spring Garden avenue, this morning.

When Patrolmen Edward Kuhlman and Harry Williams entered an attic room where Meyers had locked the dog, it sprang at Kuhlman's throat. He fought it off with a board until Williams, a crack marksman, shot it.

The dog, barking, snapping and frothing at the mouth was found running around on the first floor by Meyers when he arose this morning. He does not know how the animal entered his home.

rooning motorists and causing heavy damage among the residents. Innumerable slides occurred along the roadway, and culverts were washed out in some places.

At 9 o'clock this morning a 50-foot section of the retaining wall along Noblestown road at Walkers Mills was washed out by the raging waters, which continued to flood the valley from Robinson Run. Another 20-foot section cracked and was expected to go out unless reinforced.

Carnegie felt the sweep of the waters after they had emptied into Chartiers creek. Water flooded Main street at the eastern approach to the bridge spanning Chartiers creek.

Sharpsburg and Aspinwall were swept by a cloudburst early last night. Firemen were summoned to aid in cases of emergency, but the only damage resulting was the flooding of cellars and the choking of sewers with mud and debris. Traffic on the street car line from Springdale to Aspinwall was stopped during the storm.

Several tons of dirt and shale, loosed by heavy rains, early today slid down Bouquet Hill on the Freeport road north of Springdale, and one-way traffic rules were declared.

ALIBI HOPE IN KILLING

An alibi was offered by defense witnesses this afternoon in the trial of James Papelio, 24, of Fallowfield avenue, Beechview, on trial in Criminal Court for the murder of James B. Rohan, 19, of Orpwood street, who was slain in Oakland last September. The case will go to the jury late today, it is believed.

Among those to testify in Papelio's defense was Anthony Cambest, barber, of Wylie avenue and Chatham street, for whom Papelio worked. He told of Papelio working until midnight the day of the murder and said he and Papelio, together with two other barbers, played cards until after 2 o'clock in the morning, following which Papelio left with one of the barbers. Papelio waited with his friend for a street car, it was said by witnesses, and then he went to a restaurant across the street. Louis Caplan, proprietor of the restaurant; a waiter and a newsboy testified as to Papelio's presence in the place. It was in the restaurant that Papelio was apprehended by police.

BIGGEST ISSUE

The prohibition issue, or rather the question of how the Democrats are to deal with it in their platform next week, has become, for the time being at least, the paramount issue in this pre-convention maneuvering.

Norman Mack, the veteran New York national committeeman, raised the issue by his bald statement that Gov. Smith was and is in favor of allowing each state to make its own interpretation of the dry laws. George R. Van Namee, campaign manager for Gov. Smith, contributed to it by his rather sharp rejoinder that no one was authorized to speak for the New York Governor, and Smith himself added to it by reasserting at Albany last night his belief that the present Volstead law should be amended. The Governor said, in effect, that the fact he was a candidate for the White House had not operated to change his mind on this point in the slightest.

The Governor's statement was a red flag to the radical and professional drys now gathering here in force to prevent, if possible, the nomination of a "wet candidate." The Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. U. and their kindred organizations laid down a veritable barrage of statements today, warning the incoming delegates that "the nomination of Smith or any other wet" means dire things next November.

ENFORCEMENT PLEDGE

Despite the avalanche of statements and threats on both sides, it appeared wholly likely today that the platform which is to be adopted next week simply will reaffirm the plank of 1924, which pledged the party to rigorous enforcement and respect for all laws. Such is the advice of even those temperate drys like Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who already is looking beyond Houston and toward November.

Senator Harrison does not believe that it is necessary for the Democrats to single out one law, the Volstead law, for example, and pledge it undying support and allegiance. If that law is to be singled out for specific support and observance, Senator Harrison observed, then there is no reason why the convention should not go down the line for other laws about which there is controversy.

The militant drys, however, will not content themselves with this view of it. What they want—and what they intend to fight for—is a plank that goes at least as far as the Republican platform in naming the eighteenth amendment. They will be satisfied with nothing less and they are going to demand a good deal more in the resolutions committee.

On the contrary, it was said by Gov. Smith's friends here, there will be no insistence from New York on an out-and-out wet plank. There is no doubt, they say, that Gov. Smith would like to see his party indorse his own views on the desirability of amending the Volstead act. He said as much in his letter to the Jackson Day dinner in Washington last January. But the Governor's representatives in Houston will make no serious fight for such a plank here, principally because they realize the futility of it. Their real fight is to prevent the radical drys from building a bone-dry platform upon which Gov. Smith could not stand without stultifying himself.

Body Found

HUGO SCHMIDT

The SS. Allen S. Dwan has reported that in Chesapeake Bay it picked up the body of Lieut.-Com. Hugo Schmidt, Pittsburgh aviator, who was with Com. Theodore Ellyson and Lieut. Roger Ranschousen when they flew away from Hampton Roads naval station last February. Nothing had been heard from them since.

How Strong Is Al Smith In Western Pennsylvania?

TO answer this question, that is heard everywhere in Pittsburgh today, the Sun-Telegraph prints a ballot below.

These ballots will not appear every day, but occasionally; and on those days no extra papers will be delivered to any agent nor will papers be sold in bulk to any individual or organization. Ballots received in bulk will not be counted. No more than three in one envelope. Thus a fairly accurate estimate of the relative strength of Hoover and Smith may be determined.

Watch the Sun-Telegraph for announcements of the results.

For President of the United States, I expect to vote for—

HOOVER		SMITH

(Mark X after your choice)

Four years ago I voted for—

COOLIDGE		DAVIS

SYRIA LADIES' BRIDGE LUNCH

Five hundred guests were present at the annual bridge luncheon of the Syria Ladies' Social Club, which was held in the Pittsburgh Country Club on Wednesday. The honor guests were the past presidents: Mrs. William Meyer, Mrs. Allen Waldbauer, Mrs. William J. Stewart, Mrs. Robert T. Graham, Mrs. Robert E. Seldon, Mrs. William E. Gelston and Mrs. S. S. Smith. Mrs. Howard H. Wood was general chairman of the affair and was assisted by Mrs. J. Lee Owens and Mrs. J. C. Bily. Cards were in charge of Mrs. Charles D. Dressing, assisted by Mrs. W. R. Cappe, Mrs. S. J. Woods, Mrs. Edward Becker, Mrs. Harry H. Roessle and Mrs. Albert Kotch. Assisting the chairman of prizes, Mrs. Paul J. Marks, were Mrs. J. W. Frey, Mrs. Reeves H. Banks, Mrs. Joseph R. Darr, Mrs. George R. Johnston and Mrs. James Steinman. Mrs. Albert Ebert is president of the club.

DANCERS CRY FRAUD

NEW YORK, June 21.—A revolution has broken out among the 13 couples left in the International Dance Marathon at Madison Square Garden, but none of them has time to quit dancing and storm the office, where Milt Crandall, of Pittsburgh, the promoter, sits counting his ever-increasing gate receipts.

The cry of "fraud" sounded above the blare of the orchestra at the beginning of the thirteenth day. Twenty-four contestants insisted that the two other survivors were being allowed to loaf on their reputations as the winners of previous marathons.

Tommy Nolan and Anna King, Pittsburgh champions, got a $1,000 guarantee before the marathon started, their rivals said today, and also charged that the judges, who walk among the couples and keep them moving, allow Nolan to stand still on the floor while his partner takes a nap.

Nolan didn't bother to reply. He was too tired.

Meanwhile, Miss Winifred Barry, an actress who has an aversion to publicity, "had the law" on the dance marathon and then reluctantly posed for photographers.

Miss Barry obtained a writ for Crandall, charging that the marathon was inhumane, and then began a campaign to enlist recruits for her cause. Peggy Hopkins Joyce joined. So did Charles Ray. Ned Wayburn, who makes his living teaching people how to dance, agreed that dancing could be carried to extremes and became a crusader. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., viewed the tired contestants with alarm, and Arthur Somers Roche, in his best literary manner, delivered denunciations.

Crandall grinned, for he doesn't have to appear in court until Tuesday, and by that time one of the couples probably will have won the $5,000 prize.

Hercules Mary Promitis, of Pittsburgh, is keeping William Bush, her partner, awake by alternately tickling him on the neck and putting ice down his back. Miss Promitis is standing the pace well, having soaked her feet in vinegar three weeks before the marathon.

The other survivors are: Edward J. Leonard, Pittsburgh, and Marianne Jacque, Elkins, W. Va.; Edward J. McGovern, Pittsburgh, and Mae Farland, New York; Gunnar Neilson and Hanna Karpman, both of New York; James Priore, Passaic, and Florence Carlough, Pompton Lakes, N. J.; Joe Lopez, Mexico City, and Airelar Ksohwin, Warsaw; Dominick Maperie and Charlotte Kush, both of Johnstodn, Pa.; C. L. McMillen and Elsie Shell, both of Pittsburgh; Robert Schade, Carnegie, Pa., and Rae McGregor, Pittsburgh; J. F. Scott and Olga Christianson, both of New York; Dave Auerbach and Vera Campbell, both of New York.

Will Enroute To Houston By Plane

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 22.—Flew in last night from Vinita, Okla., against a head wind. On to Houston today. Was met at the field by the champion host of the world, Amon G. Carter, also by H. L. Mencken. Mencken says after seeing the South he is going to start picking on the North. We held a preliminary convention last night at Shady Oaks Farm. (All us party advisors). It looks like a dry vice president. Then those that are wet can go to the president's dinner, and those that are dry can go to the vice president's. Texas starts entertaining you when you hit the state line. I thought the convention was held here the way they acted. It ain't just Houston, it's Texas that will show you something. Yours,

YOUR CITY'S CORNERMEN?

A-Smilin' All the Day!

HIS NAME

Do you know the name of that "traffic cop" of yours—the one who smiles when you pass in the morning and smiles when you pass at night? The Sun-Tele's "Traffic Cop," a series, will tell you if you watch for him.

WHERE?

Somewhere in Pittsburgh, you'll find this fellow and you'll find him smiling! He smiles at everyone and, confidentially, he's never in a traffic jam on his corner. He's their friend, say the motorists; "He's ours," say the pedestrians.

TOMORROW

But if you know him and you don't know his name, you'll have to wait until tomorrow and The Sun-Tele'll tell you. Then you can call him by name.

SMOOTH

S'funny the way this chap gets 'em through in his rush hours. He's smooth and, if he doesn't object, graceful.

VETERAN

The "Smiler" here's been on his corner only about a month, but he's seen almost five years' service. Look at those snapping, supple wrists, they're his secret.

MAKING A PAPER SHOW FEATURE

A great crime story, and how newspaper men get their stories, is shown on the screen at the Liberty Theater this week. George Bancroft and Evelyn Brent in "The Drag Net" is the feature attraction, showing love, murder and trickery in the underworld, while "The Making of a Newspaper," a two-reel news picture, takes the patrons through the routine of the newspaper.

The tremendous efficiency of the newspaper, called the "fastest" manufacturer in the world, is unfolded in all its details in the news reel, just after the audience has witnessed Mr. Bancroft play to perfection one of his most dramatic roles.

Eddie Cooke and the Shaw Sisters, just out of the follies, offer an additional attraction on the stage, rounding out a full program with dancing and melody.

PASTOR ABSENT, POLICE NOTIFIED

The Missing Persons Bureau was notified of the disappearance of the Rev. V. G. Vasilieff, 48, of 237 Fourth avenue, Homestead, pastor of the Russion Orthodoax Church, of Homestead.

The missing clergyman has not been seen since last Saturday night, according to his wife and the Rev. J. Mauchuk, of 862 Washington avenue, Braddock, assistant pastor of the church, who reported the case.

CAUGHT IN ACT TAKING AUTO

Mrs. Lena Virgo, 22, of 6220 Broad street, was preparing to put her car away last night when, as she opened the garage doors, the machine sped away, a stranger at the wheel.

Her nephew, Sam Demico, gave chase on foot. At Broad street and Frankstown avenue the car hit another. Sam jumped to the running board. "Police!" yelled Sam. Police came.

In Frankstown Avenue Police Court today Joseph Hastings, 23, of 217 Omega street, was held for court on a charge of larceny.

WIFE LEFT 4TH DAY, MAN ASKS DIVORCE

Claiming his wife deserted him the fourth day after their marriage, February 7, 1923, Joseph Leo Grubbs, 4025 Eden way, filed suit yesterday for divorce from Margaret Grubbs, 227 Evergreen avenue, Millvale. Harry Schreiber, 5448 Stanton avenue, sued Mrs. Rose Schreiber, 745 Mellon street, charging cruelty.

GAMBLING TIPSTER GONE

GARDNER'S MEN CAN'T FIND MEYER

County detectives assigned by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner to investigate gambling in the city yesterday reported that Edward Meyer, saloonkeeper of 608 East Ohio street, who in Morals Court recently named the alleged heads of the slot machine concession, had left the city.

The detectives say that they were informed Meyer had left the city for a 10-day visit. The District Attorney has been searching for him for three days to question him regarding his testimony, it is said. Meyer is said to have told Magistrate Brandon that he knew the men who put the machines in his saloon.

PA. DEMOCRATS ON THE WAY

The Pennsylvania delegation to the national Democratic convention in Houston passed through Pittsburgh last night, picking up the local delegates and continued on westward and then south to the convention city.

Joseph F. Guffey, national committeeman and leader of the Pennsylvania group, said last night that there were 69½ votes for Al Smith in the state delegation of 76. The others were without definite choice, he said.

Stops will be made in Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., and the delegates will be entertained by Democratic leaders in both cities. The special will arrive in Houston on Sunday and delegates will go into conferences before the convention opens Tuesday. The return trip will be made over a different route, with several stops made in large cities of the South.

PITTSBURGHER HEADS NATURAL GAS ASSO.

BUTLER, Pa., June 22.—George W. Ratcliffe, of Pittsburgh, president of the Columbia Gas & Electric Company, yesterday was elected president of the Pennsylvania Natural Gas Mens' Association, at the close of the two-day convention here. Other officers are: George H. Whitewell, of the Equitable Gas Company, Pittsburgh, vice president, and E. J. Stephany, of the Philadelphia Company, Pittsburgh, secretary-treasurer. More than 350 delegates were in attendance.

BEAVER SUNDAY SCHOOL GROUP PICKS OFFICERS

AMBRIDGE, Pa., June 22.—At the closing session of the Beaver County Sunday School Association here yesterday, Beaver was selected for the 1929 convention and these officers were elected: President, Dr. L. H. Urling, Beaver; vice president, J. T. Moltrup, Beaver; general secretary, Mrs. Olive Michels, Beaver Falls; associate secretary, Dr. John Ford, New Brighton, and treasurer, Theodore Wallace, Rochester. Percy L. Craig, New Castle, state president, installed the officers.

$195,000 ASKED IN 6 INJURY SUITS

Personal injury suits totalling $195,000, were filed yesterday in Common Pleas Court. They will be tried before juries late in the year.

William Stettley, a Millvale boy, sued Michael Gubish, 306 Elizabeth street, Millvale, for $35,000 charging that while he was in Gubush's home the latter accidentally pulled the trigger of a loaded shotgun, the charge striking his leg and crippleing him. This was November 20, near the close of the last hunting season.

Harry H. Wyner and his son Melvin L. Wyner brought two suits totalling $50,000 against Dr. H. A. Briney, 7140 Meade street, for injuries suffered January 4 when the physician's automobile crashed into the Wyner car at Beacon and Wendover streets.

James and Anna Harrison sued the J. Kenny Transfer Company for $50,000, charging that on February 2, a truck of the company had run over the curb at Frankstown and Brushton avenues, striking Mrs. Harrison who was standing in the doorway of a drug store, permanently injuring her.

Edward M. Durkin sued the Pittsburgh Railways Company for $35,000, alleging that a street car had run into his automobile from behind April 24 in Corliss street, injuring him in many parts of the body.

Henry Ungeleider sued W. Yokes for $25,000, on account of a wreck between their cars near Houston, Washington county. He suffered broken bones.

PITTSBURGH SALESMAN HEART ATTACK VICTIM

PIEDMONT, W. Va., June 22.—W. G. Hobbins, traveling salesman for a Pittsburgh hardware firm, dropped dead from heart disease on the street here yesterday, as he was on his way to a physician's office.

LOOKING VACATIONWARD

Looking over the list of items below, which in a measure suggest the fashion sections' wide summer preparations, one gets the idea that tomorrow would be an excellent time to choose the vacation wardrobe.

More Tub Silk Frocks for Junior-Misses, $10.00

Miss 13-to-17 can have choice of 15 models at this one price, in dresses of good, firm flat crepe which can be washed with real satisfaction.

The dresses have long or short sleeves, and among those with short sleeves there is the trickiest little model with the new gored skirt which gives a lot of freedom in playing tennis.

They are in white, sunlight yellow, peach, pink, green, shades of blue and beige.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Misses' Velveteen Coats $15.00 and $20.00

Velveteen coats continue in their popularity with young women, as casual summer wraps; and the Misses' Shop at Horne's, because of its extensive showings, is the favorite place to buy them.

In the coats at $15.00 (which are unlined), and those at $20.00 (lined with crepe de chine), there is choice of black, navy, pansy, royal blue, juniper green and red.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Smart Knitted Costumes

Special, $19.75

Every vacationist should have a knitted outfit, because nothing else is quite so practical, and here is an opportunity to get very good-looking ones (some of them imported), at a very moderate price.

They are mostly two-piece models, some with sheer zephyr sweaters metal-threaded, others with sweaters in unusual jacquard patterns and with plain skirts. The colors include gray, beige, rosewood, orchid, lilac and shades of blue.

The sizes range from misses' 14 to women's 38.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 22.—Ira M. Ramsey, former city treasurer, yesterday was elected president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce. Other officials will be elected at the next regular meeting of the board.

STEALS HORSE TO BUY MOONSHINE; CAUGHT

ROCKFORD, Ill., June 22.—(AP.)—The first case of horse stealing in Winnebago county in 25 years was reported today with the arrest of Art Carlson. The authorities said Carlson stole a horse, sold it for $10 and spent the proceeds on moonshine.

CONNELLSVILLE MEN MAKE OWN PLAYLOT

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 22.—Lacking funds to turn May's field, leased by volunteer firemen, into a community playground, 150 men and women of South Connellsville spent an entire evening grubbing out the surface, removing stones and weeds and leveling off the rough spots.

RAILROADS FAIL TO AGREE ON COMPROMISE

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—The eastern railroad presidents' conference at the monthly luncheon meeting yesterday reached no decision as to the possibility of a compromise between eastern railroads and the Illinois Central Railroad, over the latter's new low water-combination rate from Chicago to New Orleans.

The new Illinois Central schedule, filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission April 28, and effective May 28, established a rate from Chicago to New Orleans for freight bound via the water route to San Francisco equal to the rates charged by the eastern roads from Pittsburgh to Chicago. Eastern railroad officials believe that this rate will divert much steel traffic from the East to New Orleans, via the Illinois Central. The Commerce Commission is powerless to interfere with the rate, as it is a road and water combination route.

The meeting was a closed one. The next will be held in September.

4 MILLION PIPE ORDER HERE

Four million dollars worth of pipe, to be used in the southwestern oil fields, has been purchased in Pittsburgh by the Empire Gas and Fuel Company, according to orders placed yesterday with the National Tube Company and the Spang, Chalfant & Co., Inc., local concerns. The purchasing company is a subsidiary of the Cities Service Company.

With both local companies the orders will result in an increase of operations at the various plants here, it was said. It will require the best part of the summer to fulfill the orders.

The National Tube Company received an order for 80 miles of 20-inch welded pipe, 14 miles of 16-inch welded pipe and 181 miles of 10¾-inch seamless pipe. The Spang, Chalfant & Co., Inc., will supply 42 miles of 20-inch pipe and 181 miles of 10¾-inch pipe. An official of the Spang, Chalfant & Co., Inc., estimated the value of their order at $1,750,000.

EXPECT 50,000 AT JUBILEE PICNIC

Coupons at the rate of more than 1,000 a day are pouring in on the Jubilee Manager's desk from boys and girls who are applying for tickets for the Sun-Tele's great outing, to be staged at National Amusement Park, above Aspinwall, Tuesday, July 3.

The outlook is that the limit of 50,000 attendance will be reached and pretty soon the jubilee manager may have to announce the "last call" for ticket applications.

To fill orders at the rate of 1,000 a day requires several assistants in the jubilee manager's office, where the envelopes are addressed and the tickets are placed for mailing. Five thousand tickets were mailed yesterday.

The tickets are more than a foot long and beside the admission check to the park, contain 14 coupons. The first coupon entitles the holder to a balloon and the second is good in exchange for a French vanilla bar, "the cream of the valley." The coupons are for admission to the following amusement attractions: Shooting the Rapids, Dangler, Merry-go-Round, Witching Waves, Ballroom, Ferris Wheel, Whip, House of David, Scrambler, Gleeboat, Aeroplane Swings.

Think of it! Fourteen sure chances for a good time.

Send in your coupon early.

Sun-Tele Jubilee Coupon

JUBILEE MANAGER, SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

I would like to attend The Sun-Telegraph Boys' and Girls' Jubilee July 3.

My folks are regular readers of The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh's greatest newspaper.

Please mail a ticket with the 14 coupons—good for admission to 12 amusement attractions and for the "Cream of the Valley" French Vanilla Ice Cream Bar, also the balloon.

NAB SUSPECT IN DRY PROBE

Frank Russo, 28, said to be one of the 167 men indicted by the Federal grand jury in the booze probe, was arrested this morning in the Homestead Police Station by Deputy United States Marshal D. A. Goldman. While making a raid yesterday in Homestead, prohibition agents met Russo. They said he was the man of that name in the indictment and placed him in the police station, pending his arrest on the Federal warrant. Up until a late hour this afternoon he was detained in the marshal's office while he waited a bondsman.

Fay King Talks of Flirtations, Good and Bad

By FAY KING

FLIRTING, like everything else in life, has its good points and its bad ones. If properly indulged in, flirting should not be looked upon as a crime and a besetting sin.

For, after all, what is flirting? Nothing more than the language of the eyes which says:

"I would like to know you!"

But if the other's eyes do not respond with the same interest and approval, the incident is over!

Many young people have met through a flirtation. And why shouldn't they? They need not be ashamed to admit it!

We are often properly introduced to unworthy people we would not care to flirt with. Among the family and our circle of friends are often persons of whom parents do not approve, but there is no way of excluding them.

However, it is not wise to flirt promiscuously. Many young men have gone through years of unhappiness because of some girl they met casually. Many girls have bitterly regretted their flirtations with good-looking men in smart-looking cars! It is always risky to meet a stranger too readily—and trust them too far.

It is safest to flirt with someone you know well by sight, but have no way of being introduced to them.

In such a case there is no harm in indicating to each other through smiles and approving glances that to know the other better would be very nice for both.

ROSE SCARFO

When Rose Scarfo goes on trial for her life Monday in the death of Sam Lagatutta, 39, whom police say was the common-law husband she shot in their home, 538 Becks Run road, March 17, she'll be backed by a fund raised by friends and neighbors, Ralph Tannehill, attorney, has admitted. Lagatutta on his death bed in South Side Hospital married Pauline Costanzo, 18, mother of his two-month-old child, with whom he was also said to have maintained a home.

CLUB'S BENEFIT BOOSTS MILK FUND

Home-made cakes, balloons, candy, hot dogs and many other goodies comprised the stock at a most successful lawn fete which the Blue Bird Club gave for The Sun-Tele Milk and Ice Fund last Saturday. The methods employed by these very young young women in accumulating their supplies, as well as in disposing of them, speaks well for their enterprise and business ability. They solicited both homes and stores and, where supplies were not donated, money was, the spirit everywhere being one of interest in the project.

One of the grandfathers made a big sign announcing to the passers-by that a benefit was being held and when the proceeds were counted they came to $25.32. Now the girls are busy reckoning how much milk that is going to buy for the Milk and Ice babies at $1.50 a week per baby. The Blue Bird Club, which is a Brighton district organization, is made up of Isabelle Graner, Betty Steingerwald, Jeanne Crone, Jane Ahlers, Velma Parks and Rita Callahan.

GAVE LOCAL MAN SPLENDID RELIEF

Feels Fine After Ten Herbs Benefited Stomach, Kidneys, Bowels and Blood.

"Friends are all complimenting me on my improved appearance, and I am only too pleased to tell them, and in fact, everyone else, of the benefits I have received from Ten Herbs," was the statement of Mr. W. C. Webb, 2521 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of men and women.

MR. W. C. WEBB

"I am an interior decorator by trade, and the past year, due to my work, and working so much overtime, my stomach and nerves began to give me a great deal of trouble," Mr. Webb continued. "My blood was below normal, and my kidneys seemed to be disordered, as there were severe pains across my back. I was losing pep and could hardly arise in the morning—I really dreaded to see morning come. After eating, I would belch a hot, sour liquid. My stomach would burn, and I suffered with gas pains. At times, I was so dizzy I could hardly work and would be afraid of falling.

"Friends told me how much good Ten Herbs had done them, and they advised me to try your medicine. I certainly am glad that I took their advice, for after taking the first bottle I began to improve. My stomach feels different now, and is not burdened with gas and acid. I no longer belch, and my bowels function properly. The pains in my back have disappeared, and I am free of dizzy spells. My blood is in better condition, and I arise in the morning feeling energetic and ready for a day's work."

"Ten Herbs must be highly beneficial to stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, or so many local men and women would not be using and recommending it.

"The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

RICHMAN'S CLOTHES all $22.50

Established 1879

Direct From Our Factory to You

The Variety

We make and sell more clothes at $22.50 than any organization in the world—and we show a greater variety of styles, fabrics and shades at this price than most stores offer at all prices combined. You may choose from hundreds of suits in your correct size and proportions, instead of dozens.

The Style

Our huge sales volume commands the best designing skill in the industry, without adding more than a few cents to the cost of a suit—our factories are producing new models, cut from new fabrics, every working day in the year, and making weekly shipments to our 31 stores. Here you will find all that is new in style for men, and nothing that is not new.

The Woolens

The world's largest direct-from-factory sales volume, and our tremendous cash buying capacity, procure for Richman's Clothes the choice weaves of mills whose fabrics are seldom sold at less than $50—we buy only the newest patterns and shades woven expressly for our use, and each yard is rigidly tested for firm texture, fast dyes, and wearing qualities.

The Tailoring

Highest quality standards are maintained, in each of the 232 operations we employ in making a suit, by skilled men and women, who share with us responsibility for your satisfaction because they own a $6,000,000.00 interest in this business. And our factories provide them with unexcelled facilities for the production of clothes that will give you long and satisfying service.

Unmatched in Value

Never before in our half century's experience has it been possible to produce clothes so smartly styled, so rich in woolen quality, so precisely fine in workmanship, to sell at $22.50. You simply cannot match Richman's Clothes in quality, at this price, or a figure near it, for our unique combination of buying, producing and marketing advantages has no counterpart in the clothing industry. And in addition to the savings provided by Richman resources, you save the middleman's profit.

Your choice of any suit, topcoat, sport suit, or tuxedo suit with silk vest, at one price—$22.50

Theodore Roberts Vanquishes Old Foe, Rheumatism, and Gets Role in New John Gilbert Film

By REGINA CREWE

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

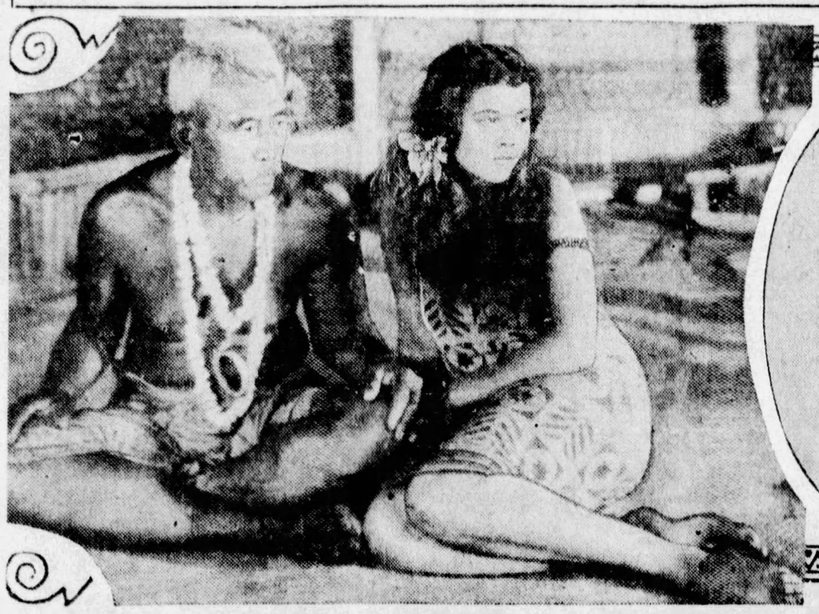
HOLLYWOOD, June 22.

EVERYBODY will be happy to hear that Theodore Roberts, the movies' "grand old man," has won a decisive victory over his ancient foe, rheumatism, and will be back on his feet in Jack Gilbert's new one, "The Mask of the Devil." Back on his feet is right, for the "G. O. M." wasn't out, even when the rheumatics had him down. In a wheelchair he made a successful vaudeville tour, and also played a role in Betty Bronson's film, "The Cat's Pajamas." You certainly can't keep a good man down.

Meantime Caddo productions has secured two dozen extra planes for the climatic battle sequences in "Hell's Angels." Twelve are German Fokkers and 12 of the type used by the Allies. In all 30 planes and a bomber will be "shot" in the big scenes. The cameramen will be up in the air, too, and in addition, a half-dozen camera ships, equipped with automatic cameras, will film the action from high in the clouds. Every stunt man and air ace in the vicinity has been pressed into the Caddo service for these sequences.

With the return of Theodore Roberts comes news that another beloved old-timer has been signed for a part in "The Little Wildcat," which Warners will "vitaphone." He is George Fawcett, and he will play the role of "Capt. Joel," a veteran of the Civil War who re-fights his battles through the years. Fawcett is an old stage star, and his voice should prove an added asset now that the "talkies" have arrived. Perhaps you remember him on the stage as "Long John Silver" in "Treasure Island," or in the name part of "The Great John Canton."

ISLAND CHIEFTAIN -:- OFFERS ACTRESS -:- SELF AND REALM



Chief Mehevi, ruler of the Island of Tahiti, played in a movie as the father of Raquel Torres, in scenes for "White Shadows of the South Seas," a Cosmopolitan production. Smitten, the chief offered Miss Torres his island and a $2,000,000 dowry of pearls if she would become his wife.

Raquel Torres thanked the chief for his honorable offer—and declined, saying that she was under contract and could not leave the film company even to become a real island queen.

The chief, Miss Torres said, is a "very nice old man," and we can well believe that, even if he does wear a flower in his hair, which, you notice, is not kinky. He is the father of 19 children.

VARIETY, STOCK PROGRAMS

Richard Henderson, who will be on the bill in the Davis next week, a few years ago was working in the Hull shipyard and singing his songs to the accompaniment of a riveting machine. These songs opened the door to a theatrical career.

"The Bride," to be presented in the Pitt next week, is not a creation of romance but of mystery and suspense. To describe her honeymoon would be to betray a novel plot. Anne Forrest will play the title role.

The Nixon Players will appear in "Under Cover" at the Nixon next week, just as it was presented in the Cort Theater, New York. "Under Cover" calls for an elaborate scenic production, being in the home of a wealthy and socially prominent Long Island family.

BARRETT ORCHESTRA CHANGES PROGRAM

Hughie Barrett, director of the Rhythmodic orchestra, playing nightly for the dancing in Sanders, Aspinwall, has arranged a changed program of numbers for the remaining appearances this week. Mort Adams saxophoonist in the Barrett unit, is to be featured playing a saxophone and clarinet at the same time. A group of song and dance entertainers offer the acts in the floor show.

SIX FEATURES IN FLOTILLA CLUB

Six features are included in the entertainment being presented nightly in the Flotilla Club. Etzi Covato and his orchestra furnish music for the dancing. Milton Merrell is master of ceremonies. Alice White, making her first Pittsburgh appearance, is featured in song and dance specialties. Bebe Falvo, Pittsburgh entertainer, presents vocal selections. The dance team of Diane and DeMar also appears.

PRINCESS HELEN

Is happiness at last to be for the beautiful Helen of Rumania, Europe's saddest princess? Helen, mother of the youthful king Michael, has been granted a divorce by Rumanian courts from Prince Carol, who would seize the throne. Carol is in England, whence he fled with another woman.

CALLS PLUMBER WRECKER, SUES

Instead of merely kicking about the way he alleges a plumber mussed up his bathroom, M. O. Roman, rooming house proprietor, 246 South Euclid avenue, surprised the plumber, R. W. Davies, 145 South Highland avenue yesterday by entering suit in Common Pleas Court for $5,000 damages.

He says the plumber was called November 19, to fix a small leak in the hot water pipe in the bathroom, the job merely requiring a wiped joint in a lead pipe. Instead he says an employe of the plumber, ripped out all the lead pipe from cellar to bathroom, disconnected the wash stand so the roomers could not use it for a couple of days, substituted brass pipe, twisted lose other connections and caused other leaks that had to be fixed, and spoiled the inlaid flooring by cutting a hole in it. A jury will hear all the details when the case gains a place on the calendar next September.

CONFESSES HE FIRED SHOP

Louis DeLuca, 50, owner of the Hollywood Shoe Repair Shop at 328 Diamond street in the Golden Triangle, confessed in Central Police Court today that he had set fire to his shop last Wednesday. At the same time, he exonerated his son, Amadeo DeLuca, 25, of 218 Eighth street, Sharpsburg, who had been arrested with him.

The elder DeLuca was held for court on a charge of arson.

MILES and Minutes

WHY not have a Town Hall and an Airport in Allegheny County? More than Fifty Million People live within one night's ride of Allegheny County and Pittsburgh, the most centrally located County and City in the United States.

NEW Bridges, connecting with new Boulevards, provided in the County Bond Issue, will save citizens of your County hours every day in moving quickly from one section of the County to another.

THE new outlets for traffic during rush hours will draw outlying suburbs to the heart of the City, for distance, after all, is only Time. In the days of the horse and buggy it was a half day's trip to East Liberty. Over modern, high-speed boulevards, it's only twelve minutes. Then it was a day's traveling to McKeesport. Now it's only 40 minutes.

THE construction of these Bridges, Highways, Office Buildings, Parks, Airport and Town Hall will likewise provide employment for thousands of men and women and the new homes, industries and communities the public improvements naturally create will give the people of your County employment for a long, long time.

A VOTE for the Bond Issue is a vote for EMPLOYMENT and PROSPERITY.

THIS AD WAS PAID FOR BY BELIEVERS IN ALLEGHENY COUNTY

FIVE MEETINGS HEAR TALKS ON BOND ISSUE

At five mass meetings in the county last night the $43,680,000 bond issue, upon which the people will vote next Tuesday, was explained by a score of speakers and applauded by the audiences. In Sewickley High School, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock described the bond issue as a good investment for the taxpayers, with its provisions for new boulevards, improved roads, bridges, a town hall and an airport. Others on the same platform were James C. Chaplin, Leo G. Griffith, Thomas A. Dunn, Raymond Marlier and Henry Tranter.

In Union High School, Turtle Creek, Lawrence T. Beary and S. J. Black set forth the advantages of the issue. Other meetings were held in Lemington Avenue School and Findley Vocational School. Speakers included Park H. Martin, John W. Vickersham, D. L. Starr, Mrs. Margaret S. Gray, Edward Snodgrass, Jr., J. G. White, J. G. Shaw, Walter Chambers, C. B. Burns, N. D. Ford and Harry S. Hershberger.

The Pittsburgh chapter, American Association of Engineers, indorsed the bond issue at a meeting last night in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Tired, Burning Feet

Tender feet—tired, aching, burning and swollen feet! The minute you put them into a "Tiz" bath you can feel the pain being drawn out and glorious comfort being restored. "Tiz" draws out the poisons and acids that cause your feet to ache, swell and burn. It also takes the soreness out of corns, calluses and bunions. Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store and have real foot comfort at last. Costs only a few cents.

Identified

ELLA ANDERSON

Going to the county morgue after having read the description of a woman's body there, James C. Brown, 1425 Evergreen road, Shaler township, identified the body as that of his mother, Mrs. Ella C. Anderson. Mrs. Anderson was struck by an automobile in Babcock boulevard, near her home.

CITY TO OPEN RIVER POOLS

Sixteen city-governed bathing beaches along the Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny rivers will be open to swimmers the latter part of next week.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark issued orders to place the beaches in condition for the opening. A life guard will be stationed at each beach. The guards will be appointed and sworn in next week.

EAST LIBERTY LEGION SELECTS DELEGATES

Eight members of East Liberty Post No. 5, American Legion, were elected delegates last night to represent the post at the state convention of the Legion to be held in Uniontown, Pa., next month. Commander Edward E. Crump, Jr., who presided last night, was elected one of the delegates. Others elected were S. A. Waddell, Karl W. Gass, Salvatore Cancelliere, J. G. Watson, Edward R. Williams, T. F. Ryan and Joseph M. Reed.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folks Hear Appeal of Summer Resort and by Mid-July Will Have Deserted City

JUNE is the month of travels or travel plans as well as the month of brides, and roses, and commencements. But 'twas not always so. In the fourteenth century folks usually went on journeys in April, if you'll just recall your Chaucer. Now in April everybody is getting back from the South, and planning for spring and early summer weddings.

But the desire that impels most folks to go away for the summer is a bit the same as it was in that far off April when nuns and squires and all the other Prologue characters went on a pilgrimage to Canterbury—the desire for the out-of-doors. Of course the motive of the Canterbury pilgrims was a religious one, but they did, just the same, choose a lovely season—the English spring—for their trip.

Some folks have left the city already, and by mid-July at the latest Pittsburgh, as far as society folks are concerned, will be nearly deserted.

Among the very first to leave the city for the summer is Anne Shiras, daughter of the Winfield K. Shiras of Ellsworth avenue.

Anne has gone to Southampton, a summer society colony much in favor with the Pittsburgh "400." There she is the guest of friends. On June 29 the Southampton Village Improvement Association will give, as usual, a street pageant with a caricature fashion show as a feature. And, of course, Anne will attend.

She will take a most "active" part in another social event of Southampton. The University Plays will open their second season on July 4. They have already started rehearsals. Anne is again this summer a member of the Players.

Anne will not spend the entire summer at Southampton, however. She will join her parents later in the season at their summer home in Norfolk, Conn. Her family has not yet left the city, I hear.

THE marriage of Miss Helen Best, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Best, of Fifth avenue, and Dr. Erhart Ruedemann, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. O. Ruedemann, of Albany, was solemnized last night in the Best home by the Rev. Dr. P. W. Snyder and the Rev. Dr. C. Carson Bransby. The bride wore a bouffant gown of white satin and point d'esprit with a tulle veil arranged in cap effect, and carried a shower of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Pauline Malone, as maid of honor, wore blue taffeta and tulle and carried pink roses, while the flower girl, Helen Myers, of Leechburg, wore yellow tulle and point d'esprit. Dr. Otis Ruedemann, of Cleveland, was best man and the ushers included C. Thomas Best and Samuel Evans, of Pittsburgh; Dr. R. S. Ruedemann, of Dayton, O., and Robert Byers, of Jeannette. Miss Dolores Myers played the wedding music. After an eastern trip, Dr. and Mrs. Ruedemann will be at home in Rochester, Minn., where the former is connected with the Mayo Clinic.

THE marriage of Miss Dorothy S. Eger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Eger, of Coulter street, Crafton, and Richard L. Kinzler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kinzler, of Carnegie, was solemnized Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Phillip's Catholic Church, Crafton, by the Rev. William C. Kelty. The bride wore white taffeta with ruffles of tulle, and her veil was arranged in cap effect with orange blossoms. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Margaret Eger, as her sister's maid of honor, appeared in pale green tulle over taffeta with a picture hat to match, and carried pink roses. Joseph Kinzler was his brother's best man. Mr. and Mrs. Kinzler will be at home in Haldane avenue, Crafton, after July 1.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

LONELY LAND

By EUGONIA R. RICHARDSON.

EVANGELINE BRECKENRIDGE had been in New York all of three months before she realized that loneliness is not so delightful as she had imagined it would be. It was on a blazing Fourth of July that she made her unfortunate discovery.

She had tried all morning to ply the keys of her typewriter with sticky fingers that moved reluctantly at the behest of a heat-clogged brain. Having lunched in a tea room where day after day she had purposely never spoken to a soul, she wandered across Washington Square and flopped disconsolately upon the only available bench corner. Decidedly she did not want to write. Perhaps she had written herself out. She wanted merely to be frivolous like the gay crowd she had left back in Lexington.

Evangeline had gone to New York to escape her ubiquitous family. In the maelstrom into which life had thrown her it was miraculous that she had been able to wedge her stories and articles through the tiny aperture magazines afforded. There had been no way, for instance, to avoid the debuts of her two younger sisters who for two successive years had turned the place called home into something that resembled a country club in action. Yet always Evangeline had managed to write, despite the jocular attitude of the family and the noise that surrounded her.

Then at last when her ability to support herself with the fruit of her typewriter had been demonstrated she went to New York. That the great city afforded proximity to editors was of minor consequence in the light of the fact that it separated her from bothersome friends and relatives.

Evangeline had come to New York the first of April. Now on the Fourth of July she was disconsolately homesick. Her corner of the park bench was all too small for comfort. The shade of the tree above her was quite insufficient. The grass at her feet was parched and brown. She wanted to talk to the hot, dirty children that played about her. Yet it had been so long since she had talked to any one that she hardly knew how to begin. A crowd of boys and girls passed, utterly oblivious to the sweltering quality of the day—shop girls perhaps with their shipping clerk escorts, making the most of their holiday. Back home her sisters were probably sitting on the terrace of the country club, sipping cool drinks from tall glasses. Evangeline closed her eyes and tried to believe that she was there. What did her recent small successes amount to? A story sold in the last month, two articles accepted, other things under way. She wanted people after all, even if people had no respect for the muse.

Then she opened her eyes and saw staring at her from across the walk a young man she had often seen at the tea room—a nice, quiet sort of young man who might be an artist or a musician. He, too, was always alone, like Evangeline, seemingly content with his self-sufficiency. For a moment Evangeline leveled her eyes with his. Nice brown eyes were the young man's with a loneliness beneath their surface. Then, when he seemed about to speak, Evangeline rose and walked rapidly toward Fifth avenue. Almost at once she was sorry she had not stayed. At 25 surely one could talk to a stranger with impunity. Yet she could hardly return and ask the young man's pardon for leaving.

At the entrance to the square Evangline paused, wondering just what she would do next. A movie? More work in her hot little room? She rejected both ideas quickly and hailed a bus. On the top there might be a breath of air. If so, one might ride on and on forever. She found a high front seat by the side of a fat woman whose body against Evangeline's felt like a steam radiator. The bus stopped and started and jerked and rumbled till Evangeline hoped that her neck had elastic qualities.

At last the fat woman left, and a man took her place. Evangeline did not turn to look at him. She realized, however, that he did not fill the place left by the former occupant. Then a voice mingled with the heat waves.

"Please talk to me," it said. "Ordinary days one can stand silence, but the Fourth of July is different."

Evangeline turned amazed eyes upon the young man she had just left in the park.

"Oh, thank you for following me," she said sincerely. "I have never been so lonesome for conversation in my life. Tell me what you do, everything, and I'll tell you everything I know."

So with the flood gates opened and the torrents of speech racing through, these two normal young people, starved for their kind, chattered like magpies, while the ungainly vehicle lumbered to Grant's Tomb and back to Washington square.

"Why, here we are again," said the young man at Evangeline's side. "I could ride all night if I didn't happen to be hungry. Let's have dinner at some gay place not at all like that rotten tea room, and then dance on a roof."

"If you'll let me run home first and put on the sort of things girls are wearing at the country club tonight," Evangeline agreed.

An hour later the strange young man, whose name she had not thought to ask, returned to find a girl in a flowered chiffon and a floppy hat that delightfully suggested a garden party. Together the man and the girl ate holiday food at a holiday resort and danced until the Fourth of July had passed well into the fifth.

"This has been gloriously shocking," Evangeline exulted when she stood again before the brown stone front of her rooming house.

"I don't see why shocking," the young man argued. "You write, I illustrated. We couldn't do much of a good job in Lexington. So we came to New York to work—and found each other."

"Lexington!" Evangeline gasped.

"Certainly. Think hard and see if you ever heard the name of Douglas McBride."

"Not the queer son of the Stewart McBride's, who wouldn't join the country club because he preferred sketching in the woods."

"The same."

"They used to say he hated girls."

"Not all girls—not girls like you. In Lexington I wanted no girl. Now in New York I want you. You can work and I can work—and then we could talk to each other in the evenings—or dance at gay places. Besides, I'm terribly in love with you. That's why I've been hanging around that tea room. I've seen you in Lexington, though you never saw anyone really in those days."

With his arms tight about her and his lips close upon hers, Evangeline knew that there was a sort of fellowship that meant freedom as well as the end of one's existence in lonely land.

ADDITIONAL CLUB NEWS

THE ticket as presented by the board of directors and headed by Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips, of Pittsburgh, as life president, was elected last night at the first annual dinner of the Bookfellows' Library Guild in the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour presided and gave a talk concerning the policy of the government towards the Indian. Mrs. Seymour, who is the only woman member of the Indian Commission, mentioned several exploded theories, one of them being that the Indian "reverts to the blanket." Three-minute talks were given by Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, Congress president; Dr. N. Andrew N. Cleven, Mrs. John S. Sloan, Mrs. John Gardiner Howard and Charles Wilson. Poems were read by Mrs. Mae T. Neff, Mrs. Lillie Reed McMasters, Mrs. Galen C. Hartman and Tom Boggs. Chester B. Story gave a talk on the drama and music was furnished by Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell, who sang, accompanied by Mrs. Bertha Gross King.

THE Milroy Community Association will give a lawn fete and outdoor social on the Milroy school grounds tonight from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock. The children of the school will serve as hosts. Games, refreshments, outdoor movies and a general community social gathering will feature the affair under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Miller.

DESIGNATING newspaper advertising as the best medium of reaching the public, John A. Price, advertising manager for the Peoples' Savings and Trust Company, spoke at the semi-monthly dinner of the Business and Professional Women's Club last night in the Fort Pitt Hotel. It was one of the most interesting and informative talks heard by the organization this season.

"Four points are necessary to the good advertisement," Mr. Price said, "that it attract favorable attention, that it awaken desire, that it direct that desire toward the product advertised and that it promote action." He cited some examples of advertising as "too clever."

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHEN MEN NEED A SANITY TEST

A MAN who jazzed merrily into marriage with five ladies in quick succession was recently sent to the hospital for a sanity test.

The cynic would probably say that he should have had five sanity tests.

But why wait until a man has married five innocent bystanders before testing his sanity? Why not test every man's sanity before he marries once?

HELEN ROWLAND

Most women marry for a good reason. But the average man never even thinks of marrying until he has lost his reason. He falls, not when he loses his heart, but when he loses his head or his balance—and usually over the wrong woman!

Why shouldn't the man who has just divorced one woman for double-crossing him, yet who blithely contemplates becoming the fifth husband of a beautiful divorcee, be put under observation?

Why shouldn't there be a sanity test for the elderly Lothario who marries a 17-year-old flapper in the firm conviction that she loved him for his bridgework and his bald spot, and will be content to count his calories for amusement all the rest of her life?

And for the man who deliberately goes into total eclipse by marrying a Lady Celebrity and becomes a self-elected member of the "only-their-husbands" club?

And for the home-loving man who marries a Broadway butterfly or the winner of a beauty contest in the fond hope that she will "settle down" into a sweet little Alice-sit-by-the-fire, and be delighted to spend her days darning socks, reading cooking recipes and listening for his key in the latch?

And for the man who marries "on a dare" some total stranger whom he has met just four hours before at a wild party?

And for the languid but optimistic youth who marries a rich woman old enough to be his grandmamma's chum, in the cheerful belief that her dollars will "come EASY," and that her kisses won't prove too much of an income tax, once he gets used to them?

And for the highbrow who marries a beautiful dumbbell because he enjoys gazing at her knees and fondly fancies that there must be a brain at the other end?

And for the male dumbbell who marries a feminine highbrow in the sweet faith that she will be content to let him do her thinking for her, and to concentrate her whole intellect on poaching his eggs and listening to his wisecracks for the rest of her life?

Oh, yes, when it comes to picking a wife, nine men out of ten should have a sanity test. But the test should come BEFORE they are granted a marriage license, not "after taking!"

SAND CASTLES -:- -:- By Truda Dahl

SAND castles! Funny little crumbly things, idly built by restless hands, but who knows what hopes may not prompt the shaping of the shifting grains into a castle of dreams? Who can tell but that Dan Cupid isn't crouching somewhere in the background, guiding the hands and thoughts of the builders, that they may take heart from the wee sand house and decide to build a REAL home which will house their love and dreams?

Many a romance has found its realization through just such a thoughtless act! Many a heart has beaten faster as the tiny castle found shape under the touch of loving fingers and many a tongue has been loosed to the extent that the pent up love has welled over and found expression where before there was but silence. So be careful with whom you build a sand castle, for you want a home, a real home, not one built on the shifting sands of a momentary infatuation. For that's not love and love there must be to have the perfect dream castle.

FOR THE LOVELORN

Undecided

DEAR MISS GALE:

As I have read your wonderful advice in The Sun-Telegraph every night, I thought that I would come to you for some advice also. I'm a girl 18 years of age and have been going out with fellows ever since I was 15, and between that time there were only two fellows that appealed to me. I will mention these fellows as No. 1 and No. 2, for that is the way that I can describe them. No. 1 is a fellow that I have been going out with for three years and like him, but somehow I don't love him just yet, but he surely likes me a lot. He does not smoke, drink or dance and does not think that a girl should smoke or drink. Of course, I don't do either, but I do go to dances, which he does not object to. He will buy me anything that he thinks I will like, no matter how much it costs; take me any place that I want to go, for he has a car, and has called me his boss ever since I have met him, and he has never changed a bit. He is not a real good looking fellow, but just the same they say that beauty is only skin deep and I'm beginning to believe it. No. 2 is a very handsome fellow, but different from No. 1. He never took me to a show if he could get out of it, or bought me a thing. At that time I was madly in love with him, for I considered myself lucky to meet him, for all the girls were running after him, including myself, but I got him and this was the verdict. I went with him five or six weeks and he expected me to wait on him hand and foot, and if I didn't do that then I didn't love him. One night he went home and I didn't hear from him for about three weeks, and all of a sudden he wanted to come back and, like a dumbbell, I did take him back. He would call up the very last minute and want to come and see me and if I wouldn't let him come then he would start to fight with me and say different things that would hurt me, for I thought that he sure would be a different fellow than that. Now I do not hear from him as often as I used to. Now here is the advice that I want to get from you: I have no one to care for and no one caring for me, as my parents are both dead. And I was thinking of getting married, as No. 1 asked me to do, but I have been undecided. Now, which of these two fellows would you prefer. Both make a good living. No. 1 brings in $80 to $85 a week and No. 2 $60 to $65 a week. So I will close, hoping to hear from you.

UNDECIDED.

There is no question about which would make the better husband, my dear, and that is the first man. But be sure you love him before making your decision. I am afraid the second man would make you very unhappy, with his instability and unreliability, not to speak of his selfishness.

Worried

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your column for some time and I think you give excellent advice. I have come to you now, myself. On my vacation I met a boy with whom I became infatuated. He also liked me. At a party one night he tried to kiss me. I would not allow it. When I returned to Pittsburgh I did not write to him. I wrote a letter to a friend there and said in the letter that I did not care for him. I also added that I didn't care if she told him either. Now she tells me, when she writes, that if she mentions me in anyway to him that he tries to change the subject. When I first wrote I did not realize that I loved him. Now I do. I wrote him and told him that I was sorry and explained it to him. He did not answer my letter. My friend tell ms that he got the letter. Miss Gale, do not say to forget him for I can't. I want to know how I can get him to like me again.

WORRIED.

There is nothing you can do, my dear, until you see him again. If he refuses to answer your letter, you cannot force the issue.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, June 23

WHILE this day may roll along at a lively pace, judging by the lunar aspect to Mercury, yet other testimonies point to certain futilities of purpose and action. The square of Saturn and the moon may be responsible for stubborn delays and difficult conditions, in which the health or mental attitude may be a disturbing factor. The inimical position of Mars, inciting to rash and tempestuous conduct, and the malefic aspect to Jupiter may help to negative results.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted during the year by a series of adverse forces difficult to overcome, and which may be accentuated by unfortunate states of mind and body. However, the affairs may be stirring and eventful.

A child born on this day may be of lively and tempestuous nature, but these and an irresponsible judgment may militate against its success, unless it be disciplined and trained.

Every truth no matter how small has a great influence.—SIR OLIVER LODGE.

Terrors of Tuberculosis Being Dispelled

TUBERCULOSIS has been named the "great white plague." One-tenth of all the deaths in the United States are due to tuberculosis. To say nothing of the broken hearts, the annual economic loss from this cause has been estimated at a billion dollars.

The presence in the body of the germ of tuberculosis is not always followed by the disease tuberlosis. There enters into the matter another factor, and that is the resistance of the individual.

Autopsies performed on a very large number of persons who died of diseases other than tuberculosis, show evidence of the disease in more than 90 per cent, one observer says in 98 per cent of all cases. We now believe that in one form or another most persons are infected at some time during their existence, usually early in life.

Fortunately, the majority of those infected with tuberculosis have within themselves the power to resist the disease. But if this resistance is broken down the germ becomes active and the patient yields to the disease.

That is the reason why it is so important for us to guard the health if we wish to avoid this terrible affliction. That is why poverty, poor food, bad housing, overwork, worry, intemperance and dissipation pave the way for the disease. All these things lessen the resistance of the individual, allowing the ever present germs to become active.

Tuberculosis usually attacks persons in early adult life. Its mortality is greatest between the ages of 25 and 35. In other words, when the individual should be of the greatest use to the world and when he has the largest number of dependents, that is the very time he yields to this dreadful disease.

Tuberculosis is both preventable and curable. We can guard ourselves from tuberculosis by maintaining good health which increases our natural immunity. We can guard against infection by avoiding contact with persons having the disease and who are careless in exposing others.

There is no specific cure for tuberculosis. There is no drug which alone will affect its course, nor has a serum or vaccine been produced which will control it. The cure of the disease resolves itself into the upbuilding of the individual and improving his general health so that the natural immunity which everyone possesses will bring about the arrest of the disease.

It is gratifying to know that tuberculosis is much less prevalent and less fatal than it used to be. We are learning how to live and with increased health knowledge and practice will come an end of this disease.

Hands Artists Rave About

Whenever New York artists or photographers want an exquisite pair of hands for "close up" reproduction they call in Annette Grandin. She has hands of rare beauty that can stand "close up" reproduction, because they are so delicately white and smooth.

"The secret," Miss Grandin says, "lies not in any special care, or in the use of fancy lotions, but simply in a skin bleach of my own making. I get three ounces of Orchard White at the corner druggist and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a remarkable, and at the same time perfectly harmless bleach. I rub a little into my hands—also my neck and face—every night and this keeps my skin not only clear and white, but soft and smooth."

3rd FLOOR DAY

Store Open Saturday 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

To-morrow Pittsburgh mothers turn to Kaufmann's Third Floor — an entire floor devoted to the exclusive needs of children. This whole day is set aside for a first showing of a complete array of small folks' apparel and toys. All goods of best quality. And at amazingly low prices! Surely this is Children's Day.

4-Piece Suits—Special Price 7.45

Just 90 of these suits have been secured for Third Floor Day at this exceedingly low price. They are regularly 12.50 values. It is an outstanding Anniversary feature that while the suits are underpriced, they have the dependable wearing quality that one finds in regularly priced clothing. These 4-piece suits are in tan and grey, and are made of serviceable woolens. The strenuous wear clothes receive during vacation days make it imperative to buy new outfits. The boy at the left above is wearing one of these suits.

Boys' Sampeck Knickers

Special— 2.85

These Plus-Four knickers especially made for this Anniversary event are tailored of short lots of imported and American woolens. Many of these knickers will match Sampeck suits. Sizes 7 to 16.

Tom Sawyer Suits

Special—1.29

These suits for boys (shown center above), are made of imported linen. With a variety of checks and plaids in several color combinations. They are flapper button-on style with belts of self material. Sizes 5 to 10 years.

Boys' Striped Blazer Coats

Special— 2.95

Jack Tar flannel blazers make trim little coats for picnics or for days at the seashore. Regularly 4.95. They come in popular stripes. Sizes 7 to 11.

Boys' New Wash Suits

Special—1.65

Regularly 2.95. Of embroidered Dimities, Broadcloth and Figured Piques with linen or broadcloth pants. Double and single-breasted. (Shown at right above).

Boys' Panama Hats

Special— 3.45

Boys' Panama hats and Italian Leghorns are exceptionally well made for summer wear, and are designed to suit lads from 10 to 16 years. Regularly 5.75.

Tom Sawyer Sports Blouses

Special—95c

Tom Sawyer sports blouses are regularly 1.45 and 1.55. They are made of white imported and American figured broadcloths, sturdily fashioned for summer wear.

Washable White Tams

Summer Dresses—for Girls 2.95

Anniversary brings an array of the finest summer frocks for the girl of six and the girl in her fastidious early 'teens. For little sister there is the voile pictured, with its embroidered lattice effect, its cunningly tucked in rosebuds, and its narrow ribbon belt. There are organdies with pert ruffles, and linens rich in drawn work. Godets and pleats vie with smocking and lace trimming for the favor of the diminutive shopper. The entire number of these dresses is being shown on Third Floor Day for the first time! Sizes 6 to 14. The three models pictured above are typical of many others.

Crisp White Blouses

Special—95c

For sports wear and for school. These broadcloth blouses, regularly 1.95, are so reasonably priced that it is possible to buy several. Extremely simple, they have tiny feminine touches in the fine pleating about the collar and cuffs, in the small pleats in the front, and in rayon pipings and rayon collars and cuffs. Sizes 6 to 14. Shown at top, extreme left.

Girls' Ensembles at

Special—2.95

The Anniversary ensemble frocks are made of Linene. The dresses are white and are fashioned sleeveless for tennis and sports. The coats are full length, in colorful prints, with white collars and facings. Pleated skirts insure the freedom of movement so necessary in summer clothes, and have a certain desirable trimness. Sizes 6 to 14.

Girls' Athletic Union Suits

Special—39c

Girls' Athletic Suits are of crossbar nainsook, well tailored and reinforced with web back. They are admirably adapted to hard summer wear. Sizes 2 to 12.

Bloomers and Panties

Special—39c

Also Pantie Waists. All muslin. The bloomers are sizes 4 to 16, the panties 2 to 12, and the pantie waists 2 to 14. Lace or embroidery trim, or plain ruffle.

Anne Brings the News To Emily About Kent's Coming Home

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

Emily Day and Kitten are daughters of a worker in the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Mary Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is devoted to her. Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, takes an interest in her and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. She gets a job with Mrs. Haiden. Her father dies and Rossiter offers help, which her mother declines. Avis Rossiter's father threatens to disinherit her unless she changes her ways. Great preparations are being made for Avis Rossiter's marriage. Kingdon Coles invites Emily to go to the city to a show. Emily visits the newspaper plant while King writes his review of the play. Her mother reminds her she is as good as promised to Marty.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"OF course I do. But I thought—well, you see some new paper and hangings and the floors varnished. And maybe a picture or so out of the living room—"

The picture she meant was a crayon enlargement of a photograph Agnes and Steve had taken on their honeymoon. It was an astonishing thing framed in gilt and it dominated the entire room. Emily had spoken about it before, tentatively, hoping to induce her mother to hang it away.

Agnes looked up with her chin trembling. "You're ashamed of your home, Emmy? What would your poor father say? You're getting too grand for your home—"

Emily kissed her and went on up to her room. There was a droop to her shoulders.

CHAPTER XXVII.

ANNE MORROW came into the shop the next day.

She had grown into a tall young woman with a flat figure and slightly heavy lids over cool eyes gave her a look of great hauteur.

She made a point of keeping a jump ahead of the styles. Her hat was redder and more tilted than the one with which Avis Rossiter had astonished the town; she drove a roadster that was a brighter green and had more nickel on it than the one belonging to Avis.

Emily had noticed of late that not many names of Anne's old friends were printed in the society column account of affairs she gave, but that more imposing ones—some from the River Road—were taking the place of these. And she had heard it said the Morrows were thinking of moving out of their home on Brookside and into one of the villas out toward Rossiter's.

Every day she would catch sight of Judge Morrow through the dusty windows of his office almost across the street from the shop. He looked exactly as he always had and sometimes she wondered if the judging business paid so awfully well.

She knew, of course, that Morrow was a great personage. The Lyall Star always called him "that sterling citizen and prominent politician" and quoted his opinion on everything.

And once when the opposing newspaper, the Item, said some scathing things about the Judge, Emily asked Marty for information.

"What's a 'party machine,' Marty?"

"Organized politics. Why?"

"Well, the Item said Judge Morrow controlled it and called him 'Big Boss.'"

"Of course. They don't like him." Humor gleamed in the tawny eyes; he was painstakingly condescending. "Better not bother with that, Em."

"Oh, because I'm a girl! I suppose you think women have no right to be interested in government."

"It's a man's game. Women have their homes."

"Good homes and good government depend on each other." She had heard Frances say that once. But he wouldn't argue.

"The Judge is all right. Don't worry about him, Em."

That didn't stop her thinking, however. Often she had seen Marty going into Morrow's office and he was friendly with Anne. He seemed the one person outside the River Road set whom Anne wished to cultivate. Of course he would speak well of Anne's father.

This went through her mind as Anne came into the shop and began to look around. Emily stepped from the dye room, removing her gloves, and the two girls came face to face for the first time since their school days.

Anne decided to be gracious. "So nice to see you, dear. I don't run across you anywhere."

"No." With a little smile. "You wouldn't run across me."

The other girl flushed and dropped her eyes. And a memory came at Emily; children in a school yard, laughing a lot, saying funny things to each other; children going for pussy willows. One ready to fly.

"Have to run home and tell Muz, Anne. You didn't say anything—"

And this girl who stood here looking down, flushing. "Just our own crowd, Em. Sorry. Let you know—"

Emily hadn't recalled that for years, but now it came back. Anne had the power to wound her then. Still it was over now; their ways wouldn't cross again.

But even while she told herself this she had a curious feeling that they would come together some time, some place.

"You're employed here? Mrs. Haiden isn't in?"

"I'll take care of you." The pale head went up a bit with that.

Anne wished to match a piece of brocade. While Emily got it for her she chattered. "Dear Avis is coming home next week. She'll be at Highcliffe for the season. Such a love—"

Anne hadn't thought her a "love" in the old days when Avis put her nose in the air and wouldn't so much as look at any of them, Emily reflected. Someway the "dear Avis" touch didn't ring quite authentic. Anne might have much but honesty wasn't part of it. Snob—oh, a pitiable thing.

Now Kent's name entered the flow of talk. "Coming back to take his bar examinations. You remember Kent? But of course!" The old malice was in Anne's smile.

"He isn't going to stay in Paris after all—be here in a week or so. Going in with a New York law firm they say. So pleasant to've seen you, dear—"

Emily put out the tip of her tongue at Anne's back. A small girl grimace it was and she laughed as she caught sight of herself in a mirror.

"Puss, puss! Oh, what's the matter with me? I know better than to let anything she can say bother. Living always in Just Pretend, and not such a pleasant one as I had. Not pleasant at all but all full of fears that she can't pretend enough to fool herself.

"And I wonder where Marty fits in? Does she still like a 'type'—'red-blooded, two-fisted—'" And Emily laughed again at that.

EARHART HONORS WAR HEROES

Decide Tuesday When to Begin Rail Link

SECOND NEWS SECTION THE SUN TELEGRAPH SPORTS FEATURES

FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1928

COAL ROAD MEETING CALLED

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway will decide at a special meeting next Tuesday when construction will start on the 38-mile extension between Cochran's Mill, in Western Pennsylvania and Connellsville, Pa., permission for which has been granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission, F. E. Taplin, chairman of the road, said today. The cost of the new line has been estimated at $12,801,619 and will open up a new route through the Pittsburgh District.

Mr. Taplin estimated surplus for May after charges, at about $160,000, against $79,511 in May, 1927, and surplus for June about $170,000, against $87,568 in June, last year. He figured second quarter surplus at $493,000 compared with $271,000 a year ago, which he said would be the first quarter since the bituminous coal strike started in April, 1927, that the road had earned its quarterly dividend requirements of about $451,000. Mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation are now operating at more than 60 per cent and other mines are opening up since the recent cut of 20 cents a ton on lake cargo freight rates.

STILL SEIZED, WOMAN HELD

A still was found by police, they reported, when they raided the home of Mrs. Emma Votyacott, 26, of 1237 Page street. The woman was arrested and today was held for court charged with violating the Snyder act.

Police reported raiding the home of Mrs. Louise Kanarek, 40, of 1925 Beaver avenue, and finding a gallon of moonshine. Her husband, Louis Kanarek, haberdasher of the same address, was charged with keeping a disorderly house. At the hearing today he told Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court it was not necessary for his wife to sell moonshine and was discharged. His wife said she wanted money for a vacation. She was held for court charged with violating the Snyder act.

JAILER FOILS SUICIDE

His belt attached from a cell bar to his neck, Paul Horazk, 60, of 13 Leckey way, tried to end his life in the North Side Police Station early today, police reported. Turnkey Frank Saunders interferred before Horazk, who had been arrested for disorderly conduct on complaint of his wife, was injured.

ACTION

There's action in the Hollywood motion picture colony's marriage market. This is unusual, but Kenneth Harlan and Marie Prevost—who is Mrs. Kenneth Harlan—are going on their second honeymoon. She has an interlocutory decree of divorce, but she's expected to have her attorney set it aside, 'cause it isn't final until November.

SHE FLIES

Natalie Kingston married George Julius Andersch, young Los Angeles attorney, at Tia-Juana, Mexico, and they flew back to Hollywood by airplane.

TELEPHONES

Other women constantly 'phoning her husband, Art Acord—whoopee!—annoyed her so much that she finds it necessary to seek relief, Louise Lorraine complains in her divorce suit, now filed.

GIRL FLIER IN LONDON SLUMS

LONDON, June 22—(AP.)—Miss Amelia Earhart, who halted her social work temporarily to fly the Atlantic, returned to it this morning. Visiting Toynbee Hall, one of the largest settlement houses in London, she exclaimed:

"There is no place like home."

After enjoying London society for a few days the Boston girl went to the other extreme and spent several hours among the lowliest in the city.

Miss Earhart went to the slums in the east end of London after laying a wreath on the cenotaph in memory of Great Britain's warwior dead. Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, who flew with her in the Friendship, assisted her in placing the wreath, which was inscribed with the names of the fliers.

At Toynbee Hall, Miss Earhart was received by hundreds of wildly cheering youngsters, many of them waving American flags.

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts formed a long row of honor down which Miss Earhart walked to the main door of the building. J. St. C. Catchpool, sub warden of the hall, met her and escorted her through the various departments.

NEW CASTLE PASTOR DIES IN CLEVELAND, O.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 22.—The Rev. T. W. English, pastor of the Croatian M. E. Church, this city died Wednesday night in St. Luke's Hospital, Cleveland. He has been confined several months, contracting a cold while conducting evangelistic services at his church in February.

LAWRENCE CO. DRYS HONOR PENNINGTON

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 22.—More than 300 residents of Lawrence County, all interested in the furtherance of law enforcement, last night tendered John D. Pennington, Federal prohibition director in this district, a testimonial banquet. Pennington delivered a short address, detailing work of the prohibition unit in Western Pennsylvania.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

NEW YORK, June 22.—Your correspondent came over to the big town to see the Godfrey-Risko heavyweight bout, but it was postponed, presumably because it wasn't raining. At any rate, the bout was postponed and the reason given was the weather. Since the weather, to a Pittsburgher at least, seemed fine, the only possible deduction was that the promoters are waiting for a stormy night to pit the Black Panther against the Cleveland baker boy.

Happily, there were other diversions in the well known metropolis. It seems there were two Irishmen, Pat and Mike (strike that out please, and make it read): It seems there is a marathon dance on here, propelled by an irresistible force in the person of M. Crandall, a Pittsburgh boy. Ever since a week last Sunday this irresistible force has been bucking an immovable body known as the blase New York public, and now possibly for the first time an answer to a very old mathematical problem may be had, for Wednesday night indicated the irresistible force will make the immovable body somewhat mobile.

Early returns from the Gotham marathon were not of the kind to cause Mr. Crandall to dance in the street, but after a pretty good wait his dancing derby began clicking Tuesday night. It was able to sit up and take nourishment Tuesday and Wednesday it was on a full tray, as we say out at the hospital.

The Madison Square Garden last night was well filled with a crowd owning considerable enthusiasm for the six Pittsburgh and eight less important couples from this and other cities.

Indications are that the affair will continue until Saturday or Sunday and at the rate of interest increase, as reported by the effervescent Crandall, the Garden may be packed coming down the stretch.

BY THIS time if you are not interested in marathons you have turned to the sport pages or the comics, and if you are interested you will be glad to hear that the New York marathon presents far more color to the dizzy observer than the original success in Pittsburgh.

For instance, it isn't every place where you can see a rather tired boy sock a rather tired girl on the jaw for no better reason than that the boy has quit the marathon and for some unaccountable reason blames his lack of stamina on his partner. The girl was pretty tired, too, and while we might relish seeing some of the more conventional cruelties of the sometimes human race, we are here to testify that the affrighted face of the poor wretch who was socked on the jaw by a goofy partner will be in our mental art gallery for four or five days at least.

The propinquity of 10 days caused the tempers of some of the boys and girls in the marathon to reach a boiling point and when the blood bubbles there often occur strange demonstrations.

The girls are not always on the receiving end, either. For instance, there is a Pittsburgh boy in the marathon who unwittingly elected a French mademoiselle, who unluckily, has a group of ardent trainers, who are so intent on winning the $5,000 prize that they have threatened to lick the Pittsburgh boy if he as much as intimates that he is going to quit.

Furthermore, the boy in question has a responsibility apart from his own action. Thus, the gang with the French girl say to the boy that he will get licked if he quits and he will also get licked if his girl quits. Meanwhile, the girl sometimes utters a few French words calling for exclamation points and asterisks when translated and insists she's going to resign. Then the boy must cajole her, which is not so easy as rolling off a log, which is for some reason considered No. 1 in the list of things that are easy to do.

SPANISH MUSIC, LIGHT OPERA ON AIR TONIGHT

GODFREY LUDLOW, Australian concert violinist, will present a short recital over the NBC System, including KDKA, at 8 o'clock tonight. His program will comprise compositions by Spanish writers, including a love song, a tango and a folk song. At the same hour WCAE will offer the Cities Service NBC System presentation. This program will feature selections from "The Merry Widow." A group of four selections from "My Lady's Dragon Fly," by Finck, also will be on the program.

A vocal duo in comedy songs and a contralto soloist singing the old Negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," will be highlights in the Wrigley review, which will be broadcast over KDKA at 9:00 o'clock. "Sambo's Holiday," by Tschaikoff; Victor Herbert's "Al Fresco," Massenet's "Parade Militaire" and several waltzes from Kalman's light opera, "Sari," will be heard as orchestral selections.

A typical summer night's program has been arranged for the Palmolive hour, to be broadcast over the NBC System, including WCAE, at 10 o'clock. "In the Time of Roses" will be Paul Oliver's tenor solo. With Olive Palmer, coloratura soprano, he will sing "Nearest and Dearest." Miss Palmer's solo will be Cyril Scott's "Lullaby." The hour will open with the ensemble singing "Climbing the Ladder of Love," which will be followed by "Moonlit Waters," "Florida, the Moon and You" and "Dream River." Victor Herbert's "Chinese Serenade" will be the symphony orchestra feature. The wood-wind ensemble will play MacDowell's "Tarantelle." As usual, there will be saxophone and guitar specialties, and the Revelers' numbers will be "My Ohio Home" and "Chloe."

A program of sparkling tunes will be offered by the Automatic Agitators in their broadcast over KDKA at 10 o'clock. Selections by the quartet will be, "The Big Brown Bear" and "Cause I've Nothing Else to Do." Other selections to be heard include "Roll On, Thou Deep and Dark Blue Ocean," "The Old Refrain," "Deep River" and a "College Medley." The guest soloist will be Roland M. Gaver, xylophonist, of Hagerstown, Md., who has appeared on previous broadcasts by KDKA.

ITALIAN KING HONORS HOMER SAINT-GAUDENS

Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts, Carnegie Institute, has been made an officer of the Crown of Italy, according to an announcement made at the institute yesterday. The order has been conferred by the king upon the proposal of Benito Mussolini. Giacomo de Martino, in informing Mr. Saint-Gaudens of the award, said it was a recognition not only of his achievement in intensifying the relations between the two countries in the field of art, but also because of his friendly feeling towards the Italian people. Mr. Saint-Gaudens recently returned from a three months' trip to Europe in the interest of the twenty-seventh International, which will open at Carnegie Institute on October 18. Italy will have a distinguished group of painters represented in the exhibition.

Makes Your Skin Twice As Lovely

Good Old-Fashioned Buttermilk Best for Complexion—Inexpensive, Too.

Woman today in her mad scramble for beauty has overlooked one of the simplest yet one of the most marvelous beautifiers the world has ever known and it comes right out of Mother Nature's own generous hand, too—plain, old-fashioned buttermilk.

If you haven't tried it, there is a genuine thrill in store for you because the difference it makes in your skin is almost unbelievable.

You can get the real old-fashioned buttermilk combined with a wonderful cream if you ask your druggist for Howard's Buttermilk Cream. Just give yourself a gentle massage with it tonight for a few minutes—that's all that's necessary. Buttermilk supplies all those properties you usually have to buy a dozen or more creams in order to get; it nourishes and invigorates the skin, it is a gentle astringent that tends to reduce enlarged pores and leaves the skin ready for powder.

The first trial will absolutely change your whole idea about creams, but if you aren't satisfied May's Drug Stores will refund your money.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, follow the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from May's Drug Stores, or any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

TWO STOLEN IDOLS

MYSTERY! THRILLS! ADVENTURE! LOVE!!!

by FRANK L. PACKARD

The Idol Is Found and Contains a Message In Cipher

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley is picked up by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reason to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy, has returned after 30 years to seek vengeance. The Idols are stolen and Young Bob starts out to recover them. After many adventures Bob and Verna Lyle are both prisoners at Richardson's plantation. The Malay whom Bob had rescued plans Verna's and Bob's escape. Bob, still bound, is carried to safety by the Malay. Bob plans to leave Verna with friends in Kalawa. Bob is determined to find the Idol and starts a search.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"THE only person you could have given it to in Aoru was Richardson," he said quietly. "But you were ill that morning, and, according to what Kafan learned through scouting around the company, Richardson, on his return to Aoru, immediately went off to the scene of the wreck.

"I doubt if you spoke a single word to Richardson. You have not destroyed it because—well, you have already told me why plainly enough. God help me, I know only too well your feelings toward me, and I know that you meant literally what you said. The last thing you would do would be to destroy it if you believed, as you do believe, that in any way it would help to bring me to account for your brother's murder. And, besides, what you said a moment ago—that no power on earth would make you give it to me—is practically an admission that you still have it."

"Yes?" She lifted her shoulders defiantly. "Well, I might as well admit it fully, then! But what are you going to do about it?"

"If you refuse to give it to me," he replied, "I shall—"

"I do refuse!" she broke in violently. "I have already told you so. Can I make it any plainer? I will not—do you understand?—I will not give it to you!"

"Then, while you remain up here on deck with me," he said, "I shall first of all send below and have the cabin thoroughly searched."

For a moment she was silent, and as her eyes swept his face the blue of them seemed to darken as though in sudden apprehension. Her voice was low, with a little tremor in it, when she spoke again:

"And if you do not find it there"

The answer was one he was not anxious to put into words. Strange that where he would gladly have given his all to inspire faith and trust, he must ever and always inspire but a deeper hate and loathing, and appear the more despicable in her eyes! It was as though fate laughed and jeered and mocked at him.

"I fear the answer is obvious, isn't it?" he said. "If the ivory god is not in the cabin, it must be on your person; it could not be anywhere else, and there would be nowhere else to search."

The color flamed into her cheeks. "Me!" she cried out. "You—you and your men would dare do that?" She shrank away from him, her hands clasped wildly at her breast. "You—you would—search me?"

"Yes— if you force me to do so," he answered steadily. "There is no other way. No batter how, and no matter why now, since you will not credit my reasons in any case, I am going to have that ivory god. But you need have no fear of what is evidently in your mind. If you must be searched, at least you will not be subjected to any more indignity than can be helped. I shall send ashore for a couple of native women."

Instinctively, it seemed, her eyes went to the shore-line, and for a full minute she was silent—while the color, receding from her face, left it whiter than before.

"I did not give you credit for so much consideration," she said at last in a strained voice. "But even if the search is to be made by those of my own sex, I see that I am beaten. This ivory god"—she took it suddenly from the bodice of her dress—"is obviously, for some reason or other, of such enormous value to you that it has made of you—a murderer. I do not know what the secret of its worth is, what it represents that would cause you to sell your soul for its possession; but it is of enormous value to me, too—for quite another reason. You know what that reason is. But since I may not keep it"—she laughed suddenly, a little hysterically—"then you shall not have it, either! And so—"

CHAPTER XXXVI.

WITH a sharp cry Bob Kingsley sprang forward and caught her arm as she raised it swiftly above her head. But the little white god had already left her hand. He swung around and watched it now as it spun through the sunlight, watched it with a sort of angry and amazed and helpless fascination. He had deflected her aim, it was true, but it still seemed almost a certainty that Chen-shu's "Heaven-made" image would go overboard. No! It had farther to travel now than she had expected, and it was not quite high enough. It struck sharply against the taffrail now, and dropped down on the deck.

He leaped aft along the deck after it in an instant, and, stooping down, picked it up—and then he stood there, like a man dazed, staring at the idol in his hand. Ivory is a fragile thing, and the blow against the taffrail had cracked the little god most curiously. Or was it a crack? The folded hands of the idol seemed to be protruding from the body by the almost imperceptible fraction of an inch. He picked at the tiny fracture with his thumbnail. It wasn't a crack! The hands were loosening. The idol wasn't solid—it was hollow. The folded hands overlapped the actual jointure beneath; and around the wrists, which were the only places where the pieces came openly together, a number of concentric lines had been so ingeniously and delicately carved to represent flowing sleeves that, under ordinary conditions, no suspicion could ever be aroused that they were anything but the artistic embellishment they appeared to be.

The loosened piece of ivory came away in his hand now. It left an opening perhaps half an inch wide by a quarter of an inch in depth, and inside, he could see, was a little wad of paper. He was excited now, feverishly so. Here was the secret of the thing at last—the solution to the happenings of that tragic night at Kalawa, the explanation of Chen-shu's thieving visit to Patua and his murderous efforts thereafter to recover the idol!

He took his knife from his pocket, and, with the point of the small blade, carefully pried out the bit of paper. It had been folded over and over again until it was no more than a small pellet. It took him a moment to unfold the paper and smooth it out—and then, for his reward, bewilderment and dismay and discomfiture came upon him. It undoubtedly represented all that he had told himself an instant ago what it would represent—but it was utterly meaningless to him. Quite uselessly he stared at the three lines of small ink-penned letters on the paper; and quite uselessly he tried to make some sense out of what he read:

otingocconvnnfwesfxfwoinnitvuwwotitisfootff

No good! A cipher, of course! Very clever of him to appreciate the fact that it was a cipher! All that was needed was exactly what he hadn't got—the key to it! A sudden new excitement surged upon him. The other idol! Did it need the other idol to complete the cipher? Was that why there were two of them? Was that it?

Bob Kingsley turned abruptly and walked back along the deck toward Verna, who was still standing near the companionway where he had left her.

"Well?" she demanded defiantly—and braced her shoulders resolutely as he approached. "I do not suppose my failure will in any degree mitigate my punishment. What is it to be?"

He stared at her. Excited because of the discovery he had just made, he had not noticed until now that, in spite of her uncompromising attitude, she looked white and miserable.

"Punishment?" He shook his head. And then impulsively: "I say! Won't you ever come to understand that no thought of anything but your safety, your welfare, yes, and I dare say this too, your happiness, ever has, or ever will enter my mind? There is no punishment. As a matter of fact, it was a jolly good thing, since luckily it didn't go overboard, that you flung the idol against the taffrail there. Otherwise I'd never have known that the thing wasn't solid, or twigged the reason why the Chinaman, in whose existence you refuse to believe, were after it. Look here!" An eager flush came into his face. "See!"

She glanced but casually at the bits of ivory and the piece of paper in his hand—and then her eyes held on his face in a wondering, troubled, puzzled way.

"It's a cipher, of course," he went on, his excitement growing. "I haven't the faintest idea what it means. There are two of these idols. I suppose one has to have them both in order to get anywhere. And that accounts for a great deal."

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

A Search Is Made for the Missing Child

AT Katie's wailing cry that "the Transvanian devils dey got Junior," I felt my knees give way beneath me in stark terror, even though I realized the absurdity of her theory. But with a fear akin to the craven terror of fire, which is supposed to be the lot of a burned child, I never have forgotten the awful time when Grace Draper kidnaped my small son and he was only restored to me alive and unharmed through the efforts of Hugh Grantland. Ever since that terrible time I have seen a similar danger lurking in every corner and have been careful to the point of silliness in the safeguards I have thrown around him.

With Katie's frantic arms half strangling me, I would have fallen had not Lillian's swift, sure clasp steadied and held me. At the same time Katherine had reached Katie and drawn her arms away from me.

"Katie, stop that noise," Lillian commanded, her voice low but with an emphasis that silenced my little maid.

"Oh, Katherine, what, where?" I began, pushing my way toward the door. "Tell me as we go. I'll get the car at once."

My teeth were chattering so that I could hardly get the words out, but my momentary giddiness had passed and I had but one conscious impulse — to start searching for my little lad.

"You're exaggerating the danger, Madge," Katherine said emphatically as we hurried through the house and fairly ran through the kitchen door, outside of which the parked car was standing. "He hasn't been gone but a few minutes at most; he was playing in the yard with his puppy when I looked out about a quarter of an hour ago. And we have no proof that he is with those men. We simply know that he couldn't have gone into the road or Marion, who has been in the hammock under the larch tree, would have seen him. Katie has been preparing fruit for canning under the apple tree by the kitchen door all the morning, so she would have noticed his going into the garden. No doubt, his puppy ran away and he chased it, forgetting his orders never to go beyond the fence. We'll soon catch up to him with the car. I do hope Mother Graham doesn't wake up. It won't do her any good to have a fright."

Her voice was soothing, reassuring in its matter-of-fact inflections and words. But when we had climbed into the car and she had taken her seat beside me, I noticed that her fingers were tightly gripping the side of the car and I realized that she also was shaken by Junior's absence.

My foot pressed the accelerator hard and Lillian spoke sharply:

"Don't go fast, Madge. We want to look in every direction to see if we can catch sight of him. He's probably hunting his puppy among those bushes in the woodland."

I obeyed her and slowed down the speed of the car. But though I knew that all eyes except mine, fixed on the road, were searching the meadow and woodland of our small domain, there came no glad exclamation heralding the sight of my little lad.

We came to the edge of the farmstead, and I stopped the car and turned to the others.

"I suppose we'd better go on down to the shack where those men are staying," I said.

"Of course," Lillian agreed promptly. "We'll check up on them and their hut, definitely eliminate them before we go any farther."

Something in her tone sent an icy shiver over me. I remembered hearing her once talk of "eliminating" when it meant fixing the responsibility of death. Surely—

A cry from Katie cut short my terrified speculation.

"Look—look dere!" she shouted, gesturing toward the woodland road.

How doctors say you should choose your bathroom paper

These 3 qualities are important

1. ABSORBENCY
2. SOFTNESS
3. PURITY

. . . These are special requirements doctors say toilet tissue should have.

Yet most so-called toilet papers are not special toilet tissue at all, but only ordinary tissue paper in rolls. They may be hard finished and non-absorbent, dangerously harsh to sensitive skin. And some of them are so unfit as to be definitely alkaline or acid.

ScotTissue and Waldorf are famous special tissues for bathroom use.

They are more absorbent. Drop a ball into water and you will see that it sinks almost immediately.

They are softer, more bland—actually cloth-like. Crumple a sheet: feel the fine texture, the absence of harsh fibres.

And they are always chemically safe, neither alkaline nor acid. In every respect they meet the high standards doctors say housewives should exact. They fit all standard size recess fixtures.

There is no need today to take chances with the paper you buy for bathroom use. Don't ask for "toilet paper." Ask for ScotTissue or Waldorf.

WALDORF—Soft and absorbent, yet inexpensive. More women buy it than any other kind. 3 for 20c.

SCOTTISSUE—Pure white, delightfully fine and soft: these rolls of 1000 sheets are preferred by many fastidious housewives. 2 for 25c.

Menu for Sunday Dinner

By PRUDENCE PENNY

Roast Lamb with Browned Potatoes.

String Beans au Beurre.
Fried Green Peppers.

Porcupine Salad.
Queen of Puddings.

REMOVE all excess fat from a leg of lamb and dredge with flour, and pepper and salt. Place the meat on a trivit in the roasting pan and place the fat about it in the pan. Baste every 15 minutes with the fat in the pan and cook about two hours.

One hour before serving place scraped potatoes about the meat and turn once during the cooking.

Remove meat and potatoes from the pan and all but two tablespoonsful of the drippings, blend two tablespoonsful of flour and two cups of water, cook until smooth and thick.

COOK string beans in boiling salted water until tender. They will take from 35 to 50 minutes, depending on the age of the vegetable. Serve with melted butter.

Remove the stem and seeds of green peppers but leave them whole. Put in a frying pan with olive oil and sautee slowly until tender. Season with salt while they cook. They should be cooked in 30 minutes.

For porcupines salad, fill the cavities of canned peaches with pimento cheese and stick salted almonds thickly over the cheese. Serve on lettuce beds with French dressing.

THIS Queen of Puddings will be found quite a treat and certainly never will be suspected of being a mere " "bread-pudding."

Scald two cups of milk and add one tablespoonful of butter, pour over three-quarter cup of breadcrumbs and let stand until cool. Beat an egg with three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful or orange rind. Stir in with the soaked breadcrumbs and turn into buttered baking dish. Bake until firm, spread with a layer of marmalade and place marshmallows close together all over the top, sprinkle with cocoanut and place in the oven again until delicately brown. Serve hot or cold.

SUNDAY DINNER MENU

CHICKEN SHORTCAKE AND NEW POTATOES AU BEURRE—Remove the chicken from the bones, cut in small pieces, add to gravy that may be left from the fricassee of Sunday's dinner. Half a cup of cream and a tablespoonful of sherry wine flavoring will make it richer. Heat and pour over the split biscuit.

Cut the potatoes in dice and boil in salted water. Drain, cover with melted butter and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

FRIED POTATOES AND BACON; STRAWBERRY PIE—Fry slices of bacon crisp, cut firm tomatoes in thick slices, pat in flour, season with salt and pepper and saute until brown on both sides.

I had a most delicious strawberry pie for dinner a few nights ago. The shell was baked separately, fresh strawberries were placed in the crust and a thin hot syrup poured over them. Just before serving, marshmallow whip thinned down a little with cream was spread over the top.

FISH LOAF WITH PIMENTO SAUCE—Cook 2 pounds of haddock in two cups of salted water, until it falls apart. Remove bones and skin flake the fish, strain the stock and set aside.

Mince a small onion and a clove of garlic and sautee in two tablespoonsful of butter. Crumble up fresh bread till you have half a cupful, toss with the onion in the pan, until the bread has absorbed the butter, cover with half a cup of milk, add to the flaked fish, then add two eggs. Form into a loaf and set in a buttered baking dish.

Blend a tablespoonful of flour with a tablespoonful of butter, stir in the strained fish stock and cook until smooth, add a chopped pimento. Pour the sauce about the loaf, sprinkle the loaf with salt and breadcrumbs, dot with butter and bake in the oven for 45 minutes.

NEW ENGLAND FISH CHOWDER—A fish chowder is an economical meal. The fish may be removed from the chowder before serving, covered with a sauce or made into fish loaf or fish cakes and thus form another course.

A real New England fish chowder is made by slicing two large onions and browning them in a little pork drippings in the bottom of the kettle; cover with thinly sliced potatoes, about six medium sized ones; then two pounds of fish. If you are going to make this a one-dish meal, as the fisher folk do, cut the fish in inch cubes; but if you are going to serve the fish separately, cut it in steaks. Cover with water; add a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of black pepper, and bring to a boil; let simmer till the potatoes are cooked. Then mix a tablespoonful of flour in a pint of milk and pour into the chowder. Let it come to a boil and serve with chowder crackers.

Now, say we are to serve our fish separately. Remove it from the chowder before adding the thickened milk, drain and lay in a glass baking dish. Make a rich cream sauce by blending two tablespoons of butter with one tablespoon of flour then gradually adding a cup of milk, stirring and blending it all the time. Cook until smooth and thick, season with onion salt and celery salt and pour over the fish. Sprinkle with grated cheese and buttered crumbs and place in the oven long enough to brown the crumbs and serve.

Another sauce is made by sauteing an onion, a stalk of celery and a green pepper, chopped in bacon drippings or butter until tender, then adding a cup of stewed tomato. Pour over the fish and top with grated cheese and buttered crumbs and place in the oven until the crumbs are brown.

Snowy-white wash in far less time with these amazing "beads" of soap

Biggest box of soap on the market for 10¢

HERE, Madam, is a new kind of soap that gets clothes whiter in much less time.

It banishes washday drudgery . . . saves at least one rinsing . . . soaks the dirt out, without the need to rub and scrub until your back just aches from the strain.

It's called Super Suds, and it's not a chip . . . not a powder . . . but a remarkable new form of soap made in tiny, thin-walled "beads"—so thin that they burst into suds the instant they touch water. Actually the thinnest type of soap ever made!

Try it at once . . . it does the work faster and better than anything you've ever tried before. Put it on your grocery list today . . . you'll never, never regret it!

MACFARLANE GAINS OPEN LEAD

HILL'S SLUMP WORRIES BUSH

BALL, BEST ON FIRST DAY, IN SLUMP

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

No Sandlot Ball in Newark Tomorrow When Johnson Pitches—Hagen Can Get Most Out of Open Golf Title—New Pitt Gridder—Traynor Host to Kiddies and Doesn't Know It.

NOT all of Baseball Fandom's attention will be given to the games in the two big leagues tomorrow, for there is another feature on the day's card in which all followers of the diamond sport will be deeply interested.

Walter Johnson.

Walter Johnson, for 21 years a member of the Washington, American League's pitching staff, during which time he rose to the distinction of being recognized as one of the greatest hurlers that ever lived and became the idol of a large portion of the American public, is to pitch his first game for the Newark (N. J.) club of the International League, of which he is manager.

THE first appearance of Johnson on the slab for the Bears has stirred Newark to such an extent that many of the industrial league and sandlot games in the city have been called off.

Saturday is always a big day for the semi-pros, but as the ironbound Manufacturers' League explained in announcing the cancellation of its game scheduled for Saturday, "We all want to see Walter Johnson pitch."

It was found that interest could not be maintained in the industrial or semi-pro competition with Walter Johnson Day on the card at Bears' Stadium.

WHENEVER golf followers go into a fanning session to discuss the financial value of the American open championship to the winner, aside from the prize money itself, the conclusion usually reached is that it depends upon who the winner may be.

The championship has carried an estimated value of $50,000, but one veteran says he doubts if more than one winner ever made that much out of the title. Of course, the exception was Walter Hagen.

CONSIDER Cyril Walker, the 1924 winner, for instance. He was so colorless that it is considered safe to say he did not earn even half of $50,000 as a result of his victory.

Tommy Armour won the crown after a sensational playoff with Harry Cooper at Oakmont course last year, but it is said he has not collected $50,000 on it since, by any means.

Walter Hagen.

Hagen is different. He has personality where some of the others lack it. He is the best showman that golf ever knew and he can capitalize the championship as no other professional can.

JUST as Remy Kremer shows signs of regaining his form, Carmen Hill goes wrong and thus the baseball fates continue the series of frowns they have been giving them all season. Yesterday's derricking in the second inning after he had been bumped for four runs, was only another chapter added to Carmen's poor work of late. Without counting yesterday's affair, which was counted against Fred Fussell, Hill has lost four of his last five games. Though charged with the defeat, Fussell pitched nice ball and held the Reds runless until those fluky happenings in the ninth that gave the visitors the winning run. Pittinger's single, which opened the ninth, ordinarily would have been fielded by Traynor, and Jablonowski's double, which scored Pittinger was not due to a careless pitch, but was made on a perfectly pitched low curve ball on the outside.

This latest candidate for future gridiron honors under the coaching of Dr. Sutherland, bears the name of Mike Trask. He played end for two years at Mt. Carmel High, but when that school changed coaches, Trask was shifted to fullback and during the last two years he made a fine record at that position. In interscholastic ranks he has stood out as triple-

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

MAKE no mistake about it, The Sun-Tele's golf tournament for juniors and sub-juniors over the Schenley Park public course Thursday, July 12, is going to be one of the biggest sporting events ever staged in Pittsburgh for boy athletes.

In less than a week more than 100 entries have been received and the list promises to total in the neighborhood of 300 before it closes. All hands are coming forward to do their bit to help the affair along, and the tournament is certain to lead to bigger things.

The members of City Council, who always are on the alert to provide additional playgrounds and other facilities for recreation, think so well of our tournament that they have put through a resolution turning over the public links for the day to this enterprise and are heartily enthusiastic in indorsing it.

THE feature of the tournament, the winner of which will receive the handsome William Randolph Hearst trophy, with the runners-up in each class being rewarded with other prizes, that appeals on the surface is that it gives all of the kids a chance to develop their game under tournament conditions. They do not have to have any club affiliations to make them eligible. All they require is a love for the game and the will to play. The test is not too severe, being limited to 18 holes of medal play.

Just watch this event go over and see how it will develop in the years to come.

FRANK (BULL) BROWN, local umpire, now is in the American Association and has completed the cycle of the highest class minor leagues. He was in the International before the war, worked last year and this in the Pacific Coast League, from which he was dropped last week in an economy move, and immediately hooked up with the A. A. He also has worked in the Three-Eye and Eastern leagues, and, despite what appears to amount almost to a conspiracy to keep him out of the majors, surely will be up there one of these days if there is any justice in the sport.

The Pacific Coast League was carrying 10 umpires and using three umpires in two series and two in the others. The cut forces it to operate with only two umpires in each game. I asked Brown if he did not think two are enough to adequately handle any game, and his reply is interesting.

"ONE umpire can handle a game if necessary," he said, "but two are better, and three make a perfect combination. With three men on the job, nothing should be missed. There is one to cover every possible play. Suppose there is a play at second base. The umpire there is right on top of it, and his decision should be correct. The ball is whipped from there to first base, and another umpire is on top of the play there. Then, if the relay is continued to home plate, the umpire there takes care of the play, or, if it goes to third base, the home plate umpire has time to dash down there and be in position to render a correct decision. Nothing is left to chance.

"The best explanation I can give of why three umpires should be used wherever possible in championship games is this: When an umpire is on top of the play, he is presumed to be correct in his decision, and there is little complaint or grumbling by the players or fans. When he has to make a long-distance decision on a play from another base it is presumed that he is wrong, even if he is right, and trouble is bound to result."

PART OF FIELD

The young golf enthusiasts pictured above are among the large field that will tee off in the Sun-Tele's free junior and sub-junior West Penn championship tournament over the Schenley Park public links, Thursday, July 12. More than 100 youngsters have entered so far and this number will be doubled or tripled before the list closes.

Junior Golf Entries Pass Century Mark

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

THREE cheers! The entries for the first annual Sun-Telegraph West Penn amateur junior golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, which is to be played on the Schenley Park municipal links on Thursday, July 12, have passed the 100 mark! In fact, 121 are in the fold and many

HOPEFUL

Every one of the youngsters entered in the Sun-Tele's tournament is hopeful of winning the William Randolph Hearst trophy which will go to the player who turns in the low medal score.

They're All in Sun-Tele Junior Links Tourney

ALL SCHOOLBOYS

The tournament is limited to boys not more than 18 years old, who have not violated the amateur golf code and are not attending a school of more than high school grade. Guentner attends All Saints' School; Slivika, Allderdice School; Slocum, Allderdice Junior High School; Di Rocco, Charleroi Junior High; Frick, Verona Public School; Heron, Peabody High, and DeFrank, Charleroi High School.

YALE FRESHMAN CREW WINS

REGATTA COURSE, NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22.—(AP.)—Yale's freshman crew won the first event of the annual regatta on the Thames today, defeating Harvard's first-year crew by four lengths over the two-mile course.

The Blue youngsters overcame an early Harvard lead and were never headed, although the Crimson staged a desperate rally within three-fourths of a mile of the finish. The Yale coxswain met the challenge, however, and swept over the line an easy winner amid the frantic cheers of the Yale cohorts. Both crews finished in good physical shape.

Yale also defeated Harvard in the junior varsity eight-oared race.

BROWNS LOSE O'ROURKE

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—(AP.)—Frank O'Rourke, St. Louis Browns' third baseman, who was struck by a pitched ball in a game with Detroit Tuesday, suffered a broken thumb and will be out of the lineup indefinitely, Manager Dan Howley has announced.

TALL RIGHTHANDER UNABLE TO WIN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

PERHAPS they are all set to make another fresh start—those Pirates, who yesterday dribbled a game away, largely through the collapse of Carmen Hill.

Just as the Freebooters were showing signs of reaching their normal pace, they fell into the lethargic stride that has marked their work at regular intervals this season. Hill's slump has Manager Bush worried.

On Wednesday afternoon the Buccos, with Remy Kremer up, resembled a club that sought to hold to its championship laurels. With four star right-handers apparently ready to take their turn things were looking up, but Hill rocked and wobbled on Fogarty Knoll in the second contest with the Reds. The score was 5 to 4.

Carmen of Corry made a start against the Giants a few days ago, being shelled off the mound in less than one frame. With plenty of time in which to rest, Hill was supposed to be all primed for the Reds yesterday, but he was among the missing before two innings were

HUDKINS DESERVED VERDICT, OPINION OF CRITICS

Anti-Climax: An Employee of the U. S. Mint Drawing His Salary

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

Crowd Jeers Champ's Win

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—The Bulldog is still champion but he has the marks and bruises of a terrific combat with the Wildcat to show that he came out of the fray far from unscathed.

After 10 slashing, sloshing rounds that finished in a torrential downpour of rain last night at Comiskey Park, Mickey Walker, the Bulldog, was declared the victor on points over Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat, but it will be some time before the echoes of protest and dissent from that verdict die down.

Walker retained his world's middleweight crown on a two to one decision. The two judges, Harry Carroll and Edward Klein, gave their ballots to the titleholder, but the referee, Eddie Purdy, cast his vote for the challenger. In the soaked and sodden press row, a clear majority credited Hudkins with being the winner, chiefly on his tireless two-fisted aggressiveness. Most of the experts gave Ace a margin in six of the 10 rounds.

But if there was dissent from the decision around the ringside it was mild by comparison with the outburst that came from the dripping crowd, some 25,000 to 30,000 spectators who sat doggedly through the downpour, fascinated by the dripping, bloody, ceaseless battle between the Bulldog and the Wildcat. The roar of booes and hisses grew, instead of diminishing. Hundreds swarmed about the ring to shout and shake their fists. Thousands, more prudent even if also vehement, went back to the shelter of the ball park's stands to vent their vocal wrath. It was one of the wildest demonstrations of disapproval any championship fight has witnessed in recent years, lasting 15 minutes in full volume and a half hour in more sporadic form.

To most of those huddled around the ringside, as the rain beat down in torrents throughout the last three rounds, it appeared clear that the blond Hudkins, ripping into his foe with relentless rushes, deserved to win with a whirlwind rally in the last five rounds that offset Walker's big splurge in the third, fourth and fifth rounds.

His big opportunity gone, Walker never thereafter was able to beat back Hudkins' wild rushes or prevent the Ace from boring in, burying his bloody head in Walkers shoulder and whaling away with both fists. Hudkins forced the fight throughout the last five rounds. Occasionally his head was jolted back by Walker's left. His face was a mask of blood, oozing from cuts about both eyes and his nose but he refused to be tamed.

M'GRAW KAYOED BY M'LARNIN

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Smiling Jimmy McLarnin, who enthroned himself in the hearts of New York fight fans in his first Eastern appearance by a crashing one-round knockout of Sid Terris, Manhattan's own ghost of the Ghetto, has come back to his throne. After a month spent in the shade cast by the terrific drubbing he received at the hands of the lightweight champion, Sammy Mandell, Jimmy made a success of his comeback last night by stopping Phil McGraw after only two minutes 45 seconds of the first round.

Tackling in McGraw one of the toughest battlers in his class, one whose jaw had never been found vulnerable in over 100 fights, Jimmy landed three times with his good right mauler, and each time scored a clean knockdown. After the fourth time the Detroit florist went to the canvas, Referee Jack Dorman led McLarnin to a neutral corner in token of a technical knockout.

WRESTLING MATCH OFF

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(INS.)—The Jim Londos-Dick Shikat heavyweight wrestling match scheduled to be held here tonight was postponed today on account of rain. The match will take place next Monday night.

It seems that the youngsters are appreciating the tournament; every type of youthful linksman within the eligibility lines is among the entrants. High schools, grade schools and prep schools all have their representatives—and there are caddies who have not yet reached their sixteenth birthday. They come from virtually every nook and corner of the tri-state district, Western Pennsylvania, Northern West Virginia, Eastern Ohio—they will all have boys here.

This is one tournament, you know, in which every boy has a chance to capture a beautiful trophy whether he is six years old or 18. The William Randolph Hearst Trophy will be presented to the boy who compiles the lowest score, whether he be in the Junior Class, which will include boys between the ages of 15 and 18, or in the Sub-Junior Class, which consists of lads 14 years of age and under.

Of course there will be other wonderful prizes for the leaders in each division, as well as two prizes for high gross, one in each class.

There are 121 entrants now—there will be at least 350, and we hope for 400, when the entries close on Monday, July 9.

Here are the names and addresses of the boys who entered the field yesterday:

James Malley, 17, 508 First street, Oakmont, Pa. (Junior)
James Cipriani, 14, Railroad street, Castle Shannon. (Sub-Junior)
Edward Cipriani, 16, Railroad street, Castle Shannon. (Junior)

SHARKEY STOPS GATES

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey, championship contender, knocked out Leo Gates in the third round of a 10-round heavyweight match here last night. Sharkey's first punch in the third, a right cross to the chin, felled the Indian. Gates got up at the count of nine to meet a left hook which dropped him again. Jack then finished him with another left.

threat man—kicker, forward-passer and ball-carrier. He will be out for the Panther Freshman team in the fall.

THE big testimonial to Pie Traynor at Forbes Field and the Hotel Schenley on Saturday, July 7, will not be the only Traynor Day this season.

There is another on the cards, but Pie won't know anything about it until he reads this issue of The Sun-Tele.

It is to be held in Attleboro, Mass., on August 1. Traynor will not even be present, but the day will be in his honor, and 500 youngsters will ride on the merry-go-round, eat ice cream and drink pop at the expense of the Pirates' third baseman.

Attleboro each fall organized a team of major leaguers to meet a similar team from a rival community. Rabbit Maranville in 1921 failed to show up for the first game of the series and sent Traynor to play in his stead. Pie made three errors and lost the game behind Grover Alexander's pitching, and was so "broken up" over it that he refused to take the $200 which had been promised to Maranville.

Pie Traynor.

"I play ball for more than money and no one feels worse than I do over my poor showing," Pie wrote the guarantors.

THE money remained in the club treasury until this year, when, by vote it was appropriated to the entertainment of "worthy" children under direction of the Salvation Army at the city's municipal park, and although Pie lacked knowledge of the fact until today, he will be benefactor on August 1 to 500 youngsters to whom an outing is indeed a rarity.

completed. That kind of pitching is discouraging to any manager who seeks to get his club up in the race.

LEAD WILTS

The Bushwhackers gave Bunker a two-run lead right at the start yesterday, but in the second inning Hill floundered around as the Rhinelanders made four runs. Hard fighting on the part of the Pirates behind the de luxe pitching of Lefthander Fred Fussell, who relieved Hill in the second, eventually forced a deadlock, the game reaching a drawn stage in the fourth.

From the fourth to the ninth the two clubs battled hammer and tongs, but there was no runmaking until the last round, when the Reds managed to put over the winning counter.

Meantime the Corsairs were guilty of some sloppy ball. On two occasions the home team gummed up the bunt play terribly. Fussell bunted into a double play, while L. Waner's attempt at a sacrifice resulted in a pop fly. Had either of the players got the ball on the grass when ordered to bunt, the home team might have won the contest.

Jake May was pitted against Hill, and Jake went along in fair shape until the seventh, when he was yanked in favor of Peter Jablonowski, Polish athlete, who proved the boy of the hour for Jack Hendricks.

BABE LOSES HOMER

NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS.)—George Herman Ruth was nursing a thirty-third degree grouch today. The Bam socked a gorgeous home run into the right field bleachers yesterday in the second game of the Yankee-Athletic doubleheader, but homer No. 24 was washed right out of the records when rain stopped the game.

HELEN PAYSON GOLF LEADER

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

Miss Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., one of the most prominent of America's women links stars, held a commanding lead in the Allegheny Country Club's annual invitation tournament for women when approximately half of the first-round scores were posted this afternoon.

Miss Payson shot consistently brilliant golf to score 39—43—82 and gain an edge of five strokes. Her card:

Out ..... 4 4 3 6 4 5 3 5 5—39
In ..... 5 5 4 5 5 4 4 4 5—43—82

Miss Virginia VanWie, of Chicago, another internationally famous star, scored 44—43—87 to capture temporary possession of second place, and Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, of the home club, West Penn titleholder was one stroke back with 40—48—88. Other scores:

Rebecca George, 144; Elizabeth George, 132; Mrs. I. S. Ball, 132; Mrs. G. C. Hutchinson, 152; Alice Childs, 117; Virginia Goldsbury, 104; Mrs. William Callery, 115; Mrs. G. F. Downey, 152; Mrs. L. W. Young, withdrew; Mrs. C. R. Arrott, 118; Mrs. J. C. Stewart, 124; Mary Oliver, 113; Mrs. R. T. Frick, 113; Mrs. J. W. Taylor, 106; Mrs. P. E. Donner, 117.

FLYING CLOUD WINS GRANTS PASS MARATHON

GRANTS PASS, Ore., June 22.—(AP.)—Running with every evidence of pain in his shortened stride, Chief Ukiah, one of the contestants in the 482-mile Redwood Highway Indian marathon from San Francisco to Grants Pass, finished third in the contest when he crossed the finish line early today. He will receive a prize of $1,000.

Flying Cloud, a young Karook Indian, ran away with the first prize of $5,000 when he crossed the finish line yesterday morning. Melika, 62-year-old Zuni Indian, came in several hours later for second place and $2,500.

Chrysler Stock Gold Mine; How Detroit Reads Outlook

By B. C. FORBES

DETROIT, June 21.—Walter Chrysler is more discussed here at the moment than even Henry Ford. He is proclaimed an automobile wizard.

"Follow me and wear diamonds," is a common Wall street saying. Those who have hooked up with Chrysler as stockholders on even a modest scale have multiplied their money dazzlingly. General Motors has proved a veritable fountain of gold for its stockholders, but the Chrysler showing is even more phenomenal.

If you had invested $1,000 in Chrysler stock in August, 1921, the market value of your shares by the beginning of this year would have reached $39,810! That is, you would have multiplied your investment 40 times.

And meanwhile you would have received in dividends $3,375.

DETROIT strongly favors the Chrysler-Dodge deal. Automotive men point out that when Walter P. Chrysler took over Maxwell, in 1921, the latter concern appeared to be in utterly hopeless shape. "If Chrysler has been able to do what he has done with Maxwell, what can he not do with Dodge, with its wonderful force of dealers?" they ask.

The progress of the planned deal is being followed here with intense interest. Apparently everybody hopes it will go through—including Dodge stockholders, who are familiar with the ins and outs of the motor industry.

THE general expectation among motor men is that the second half of the year will compare favorably with the second half of last year. Of course, the record-breaking production enjoyed by various companies during recent months will not continue.

The delay in speeding up the Ford output will mean a distinctly lower total production for the year than John J. Raskob and others originally estimated.

Although Ford is now employing a larger number of workers than ever before, his daily output of cars is only about one-third of the peak he attained with his Model T. Those in the industry are trying to figure out how many men Ford would have to employ to get his new car up to the maximum of the old car. Mr. Ford will be hailed as a greater genius than in the past if he can duplicate the profits he formerly made.

CAPT. E. V. RICKENBACKER, the famous American ace, who is now with Cadillac, is enthusiastic over the part flying will play in bringing about international understanding, friendliness and peace.

"Ten years ago," he said, "the airplane was thought of only as an instrument of destruction. On the western front we aviators hated each other and tried to kill each other. Today German and Irish fliers — former enemies — span the Atlantic in the same ship. We in the United States pour back into Germany thousands of congratulatory cablegrams, harbingers of goodwill. Lindbergh was the fortunate agent who first startled the world into a realization that the airplane is a product of science whose real mission is to promote mutual understanding and goodwill through transportation and communication.

"These peace-time scientific accomplishments with aircraft far surpass in lasting greatness the greatest aeronautic feats of destruction during the World War. Our greatest heroes today are not heroes of destruction, but heroes of scientific achievement. Let us foster to the utmost the scientific development of all of our modern means of transportation and communication, for they enfold possibilities of world peace and progress far beyond even our own most sanguine dreams."

A COMMON sight on roads radiating from Detroit is lines of brand new cars being driven home by dealers from different parts of the country. Something new—at least to me—was the driving away of two new trucks on top of another new one, a three on one arrangement. They happened to be Federal motor trucks and when I mentioned the matter to President Martin L. Pulcher, he related a more novel incident.

A Virginian arrived in his passenger car, hoisted it on to his new truck, and started for home driving the truck. "He arrived in discomfort, he left in comfort," was the claim made!

THE latest show place in Detroit is the towering Fisher Building now approaching completion, nearby the General Motors Building. In no other city have so many dwelling houses been converted into offices. The finished Fisher Office Building will help to remedy this.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Big Drop in Loans.

Loans to brokers by New York Federal Reserve Bank members totaled $4,269,590,000 on June 20, as compared with $4,427,691,000 on June 13. This decrease of $158,101,000 is the largest drop in loans this year and while actually bullish in that it reflects further correction of the over-extended brokerage credit situation, was regarded in some quarters today as having a bearish tinge because of the fact that decrease failed to reach $200,000,000, the figure some observers were expecting. There is no intention on the part of the Reserve authorities to crack the market open in their process of reducing the loan totals and the $158,000,000 drop this week on top of last week's decline of $135,000,000 mirrors the orderly manner in which the correction is being brought about. It would appear that further adjustment is necessary, as the lowest figure so far stated as the probable mark at which the Reserve is aiming is a $500,000,000 reduction from the peak established around the first of this month. Practically 60 per cent of such an adjustment has been accomplished, so it would appear that at least two more weeks of liquidation would be in order.

Pittsburgh Coal Spurts.

Pittsburgh Coal was one of the strongest stocks in the market today with buying orders uncovering a shortage of stock for sale around the levels prevailing the past week or so. On several previous occasions this month, Coal has given indication of good buying, but each attempt to put the price above 40 brought enough stock into the market to halt the advance. Yesterday the price reached 42 and this morning the opening was at a fractional advance, after which it jumped several points before the demand was satisfied. Buying was attributed to long pull expectations arising out of the lake cargo rate decision which restores Pittsburgh to its natural favored position in serving the big Northwest consuming area through the lake route. Reports in the street today were that Pittsburgh Coal is booked through to October 1, based, presumably, on the average operating and output rates now prevailing.

Aluminum "Ex" Stock Dividend.

Aluminum Company of America common was quoted "ex" the stock dividend of one share of Aluminum, Ltd., common for each three shares of Aluminum common. The latter sold today at 134½, comparing with the last previous sale (Wednesday's close) at 156. There were no sales yesterday. Aluminum, Ltd., is the Canadian company formed to take over the Canadian and foreign properties and stock holdings of Aluminum Company of America. The Aluminum, Ltd., shares have been admitted to trading on the New York Curb, but no sales have been recorded so far.

Hints Extras on Overland.

Commenting on the resumption of dividend payments at the rate of $1.20 a year on Willys-Overland common, John N. Willys, president, said: "The board deemed it advisable to adopt a conservative fixed dividend rate, which could be comfortably maintained without jeopardizing the financial or trade position or general policies of the company, and with a view to extra disbursements whenever earnings and business conditions warranted." Mr. Willys stated that all dividend requirements for common and preferred stocks, sinking fund requirements on bonds and preferred stocks for present year had been earned in the first six months, with June estimated. On August 1 the company will retire $1,000,000 in bonds. The cash holdings of the company are now about $12,000,000. President Willys stated that business of the company "has never been in a sounder or more flourishing state."

Weak Accounts Not Erased.

J. S. Bache & Co. comment today on the loan situation as follows: "In a major corrective movement such as that which the market entered on June 4, it seems to us that materially greater improvement is necessary to reinvite aggressive operations on the bull side. There still remains, in our opinion, a substantial amount of weakly-held stock that on further recessions will be forced into stronger hands."

Postum Capital Plan Approved.

Stockholders of Postum Company, Inc., have approved an increase in authorized common stock from 2,000,000 shares to 5,000,000 shares, part of which the directors decided to distribute to shareholders as a 100 per cent stock dividend, and a portion of it in part payment for the recently acquired Cheek-Neal Coffee Company, producers of Maxwell House coffee. The date of distribution of the stock dividend will be fixed later. Nothing developed at the meeting in relation to reported negotiations by Postum for control of American Linseed Company. Postum is understood to have acquired a substantial amount of American Linseed stock and negotiations are reported to be in progress. Gold Dust Corporation had been trying to obtain control of American Linseed, but the deal was terminated when large holders of stock could not agree on terms.

MARKET DULL, STOCK PRICES SEE-SAW

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Desultory trading characterized today's stock market, one of the dullest full sessions of the year. Prices started forward at the opening, slipped back before midday and then started upward again in the early afternoon, repeating the performance of the last few days.

Except for the decrease in federal reserve brokers' loans, which was somewhat smaller than generally expected, there was practically nothing in the over-night news to influence the price movement. Money rates continued firm. Further exports of gold to Italy and France this week-end and the heavy demand for funds in connection with mid-year settlements preclude any possibility of easy rates before the early part of next month. Weekly mercantile reviews continued to report irregularity in business, although fall prospects are somewhat brighter.

Radio was again an erratic performer, climbing nearly 5 points to 174⅜, dipping to 171½, and then rebounding to 176¼, or nearly 25 points above the week's low. A jump of 5½ points in Pierce Arrow preferred was based on reports that negotiations are nearing completion for the merger of that company with Studebaker. Willys Overland common fell back more than 2 points on the traditional "selling on the good news" following the dividend announcement. General Motors also encountered selling resistance, despite unofficial predictions of a substantial dividend distribution at the August meeting.

Concurrent strength of Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Western Maryland, which advanced 5 and 3 points, respectively, was based on the recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission granting the former permission to build a new line to connect with the latter near Connellsville, Pa. Pittsburgh Coal and Pittsburgh Terminal Coal also recorded substantial gains.

Coppers, after a period of sluggishness, moved forward under the leadership of Greene Cananea and Calumet & Arizona. Food, mail order and chain store shares also developed several points of strength, but the airplane, tobacco and express issues ran into further selling.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 8 points to a decline of 1 point. Realizing and some selling promoted by the extent of the recent advance, relatively easy cables and rather better crop reports from Texas, was absorbed at declines of about 3 to 5 points, however, and the market firmed up again. Active months soon showed net advances of 5 to 10 points on apprehensions of showers in the South, the bullish character of most of the private crop advices, and more favorable reports from the cotton goods trade.

October sold up from 21.26@21.39c and was holding within 2 or 3 points of the best at the end of the first hour.

The market sagged off again during the morning under continued realizing, but steadied on the forecast for showers over the greater part of the South. Trading was much less active than yesterday, but the market showed a steady tone toward noon, with October selling up to 21.43c, or about 14 points net higher. Late winter and spring months were rather slow to follow the advance. Prices generally showed net gains of about 3 to 12 points at midday.

ARKANSAS PFD. HOLDS FIRM

The market continued quiet and prices were practically unchanged on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Volume of business in the early session was very light with trading confined to odd-lot dealings in a half dozen or so of the recently active issues.

Arkansas Gas preferred was quoted ex-dividend 15 cents a share today, the first payment on the stock since the company was reorganized, several weeks ago. The stock held firm on a narrow price range, unchanged from the quotations of the previous session. The new interests in control of Arkansas are continuing their process of rounding out the property, their latest move being the purchase of the Dixie Gulf Pipe Line Company's half interest in the Reserve Natural Gas Line Company, which operates a line from Shreveport to El Dorado and Houston. The acquistions gives Arkansas Gas control of the Reserve company.

Lone Star Gas was a little more active today than it had been for the past few sessions, but the price was unchanged. Carnegie Metals remained at 19, the bottom figure of the recent reaction.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass jumped 10 points for the day on further buying, apparently from the same sources which have been accumulating the shares over the last several weeks. The stock has had a steady, though unostentatious, rise of about 30 points since it touched the year's low last February. Buying is credited to interests informed as to the company's progress with the new safety glass for automobiles, which it is producing in association with the Du Ponts. Plant capacity for the manufacture of this product is being doubled and it is understood some important contracts have been made to supply General Motors divisions.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, June 22.—Unexpected brisk upturns in Liverpool quotations helped give a lift early today to wheat values here. Besides, harvest weather conditions in Kansas and Oklahoma were of unfavorable character, various places reporting rain, winds and hail. Opening ½@1⅛c up, Chicago wheat later held near to the initial range. Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer, with corn starting at ⅛@⅜c advance, and subsequently gaining a little more.

At noon, wheat was unchanged to ⅝c higher and corn at ⅜c to 1c advance.

In some quarters, a sudden sharp advance today by the Liverpool wheat market was explained as resulting from action of the Canadian growers' organization in withholding at the moment any offers of wheat from export. Meanwhile, further advices of black rust came from South Dakota. A dispatch dated Elkpoint, S. D., said black rust was showing there in ruby spring wheat.

One well-known crop expert telegraphed that the black rust in the Elkpoint, S. D., district is not very plain as yet, but is more pronounced than is the case further north. On the other hand a different crop authority advised from Mitchell, S. D., that in a drive of more than 100 miles in the Jim River Valley he had found no trace of rust, and that the stand of wheat is too thin and short for rust to be a menace.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 22.—A decline of 1-16c occurred in the raw sugar market today under increased offerings of nearby duty frees, with sales reported of 32,000 bags of Philippines and 34,000 Porto Ricos in nearby positions to local refiners at 4.27c delivered. At this level refiners showed further interest.

The raw sugar futures market opened unchanged to 1 point lower under July liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections, influenced by the decline in the spot market. Offerings were absorbed by shorts and trade interest. A steadier tone developed, with values at midday about net unchanged from the previous close. With Monday first notice day for July contracts, there appeared to be a disposition to even up commitments and most of the early trade was in the way of exchanging from the July to the more distant position.

The refined market was unchanged at 6.05 to 6.10c for fine granulated. Old contracts are believed to be pretty well cleaned up, but as yet new business shows no signs of improvement.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE enterprise and ingenuity of two Pittsburgh men has saved thousands of lives during the past 14 years. They have built up a business which is not duplicated anywhere else in the country. They both believe that they have barely started on their work of eliminating accidents.

THE two men are George H. Deike, president of the Mine Safety Appliances Company, and John T. Ryan, vice president and general manager of the same organization. Both of them, before starting their present business, were connected with the rescue division of the United States Bureau of Mines. In their work of penetrating the gaseous depths of mines, swept by disaster, they saw catastrophe after catastrophe which might have been averted. They helped carry from the mines hundreds of men who might have walked out alive.

They started in a modest way as sole distributors for the Edison Electric Safety Cap Lamp, which replaces dangerous open flames with small storage batteries and electric bulbs, which cannot ignite inflamable gases. It was not long, however, before they had started to manufacture safety devices which they had perfected themselves.

THE latter part of the war saw the perfection of gas masks. The new company turned this wartime device to the uses of industry. Coal mines were first supplied, but other industrial plants needed similar equipment. The steel, oil, smelting and chemical industries in addition to the municipal fire departments now use gas masks. The company makes the only mask which protects against deadly carbon-monoxide.

BEFORE the Mine Safety Appliances Company started in business the production of safety devices was confined to European countries. The company was the first producer of any complete line of such products in this country and today it is still practically alone in its field.

RECENTLY an oil field was brought into production. Large quantities of hydrogen sulphide gas were being given off from the wells. The company was able to provide a mask to protect workers, and it was not long afterward that oil operators in India, where similar difficulties were encountered, were coming to the Mine Safety Appliances Company for assistance.

GAS masks, however, are only part of the business. Equipment for rock dusting is produced. Oxygen breathing apparatus for rescue work is also made. The company supplies detectors to warn of the presence of poisonous gases. The Holland tunnels under the Hudson River at New York City were equipped with devices for measuring the quantity of carbon monoxide in the tubes.

INDUSTRIAL enterprises are not the only places where the products are found. The H-H Inhalators are supplied as police and fire department equipment. They are found in life saving stations and in hospitals. The inhalators afford a system of artificial respiration which does not have the dangers of rupturing the lung tissues as do pulmotors when in inexperienced hands.

THE company is a large producer of first aid equipment. Its kits are found in industrial plants throughout the country. The factory is located in Pittsburgh. It employes about 400 persons. An addition to the plant is under construction and several new products are being prepared for market.

ONE device which is in great demand, is the self-rescuer. It is a small gas mask in an air-tight case which can be carried on the miner's belt. In the event of an explosion the miner can be protected from the after-damp for half an hour, which is usually long enough for him to make his escape. At a disaster, not long ago, 66 of the bodies removed were not even scratched. They had survived the explosion only to be overcome by gas. Had these men been equipped with the self-savers, their lives probably would have been saved. The total cost would have been less than $500.

EMPLOYES of the Mine Safety Appliances Company are found at every mine disaster. They give their services and the use of their equipment. No charge is ever made for such emergency work.

NO. 340.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works to enter into a contract with the Sheet Concrete Pavement Corporation of America, New York City, New York, for the purpose of permitting the City of Pittsburgh to use sheet concrete pavement and providing for the terms of said contract.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Mayor and Director of the Department of Public Works be and they are hereby authorized and directed to make, execute and deliver in the name of the City of Pittsburgh and for the City of Pittsburgh, the following contract with the Sheet Concrete Pavement Corporation of America, New York City, New York, and to affix thereby the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh.

AGREEMENT.

Made this....day of....between the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the County of Allegheny, Pennsylvania, and a City of the second class, party of the first part, and hereinafter called the "City" and the Sheet Concrete Pavement Corporation of America, New York City, party of the second part, hereinafter called "Sheet Concrete Corporation."

WHEREAS—The City desires to use sheet concrete pavement on certain street and bridge pavement work, and

WHEREAS—Sheet concrete pavement is a patented material owned and controlled by the Sheet Concrete Corporation, and

WHEREAS—In order to obtain proper competitive bids for laying this particular pavement in the City, the City desires to purchase the necessary special cleavage fabric entering into the pavement and arrange for the proper engineering supervision service and pay the cost of such material and service from funds set aside for the particular improvement, exclusive of the contract to be entered into between the City and the contractor for said improvement. Now This Agreement

WITNESSETH—That for the consideration hereinafter stated, the City and the Sheet Concrete Corporation agree to and with each other as follows.

1. The Sheet Concrete Corporation agrees to furnish and deliver to the City special cleavage fabric and to provide the necessary engineering consulting and supervision service for the preparation of specifications and laying of said concrete pavement.

2. The Sheet Concrete Corporation agrees to save the City harmless against all suits for encroachment of patent in laying concrete pavement by the Sheet Concrete method.

3. The Sheet Concrete Corporation agrees to accept as full compensation for the foregoing services and materials, the sum of Thirty (30c) cents per square yard for all pavement laid on individual contracts toaling in excess of Fifteen Hundred (1500) square yards of pavement surface and Thirty-five (35c) cents per square yard of all pavement laid on individual contracts totaling not more than Fifteen Hundred (1500) square yards of pavement surface, it being distinctly understood and agreed that the Thirty (30c) cents per square yard price shall govern when the total yardage laid shall be such that, at the price of Thirty (30c) cents per square yard, the total cost will exceed the cost of laying Fifteen Hundred (1500) square yards at Thirty-five (35c) cents per square yard.

4. The City agrees to pay to the said Concrete Corporation, at the prices set forth in Article 3, by current monthly estimates based on the yardage of pavement laid during the preceding month and by final estimate upon the completion of the laying of the pavement, said estimates to be paid from the funds set aside by Ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh providing funds for the particular improvement, either street or bridge, involved.

5. This agreement shall be in effect from date thereof until December 31, 1929, unless cancelled by the consent of both parties.

This contract is entered into by the said City pursuant to Ordinance No. ...... approved ...... of record in Ordinance Book Volume ...... Page ......

NOTICE TO RIVER INTERESTS AND ALL NAVIGATORS.

Construction of the third cofferdam at dam No. 6, Allegheny River will be started at once. This cofferdam will extend to a point approximately 180 feet from the river wall of the lock, thus reducing the navigable channel to approximately 180 feet. The upper and lower corners of this cofferdam will each be protected by a red light except when high river stages prevent. Blue print copies showing the location of this cofferdam are on file at the U. S. Engineer office, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Although the score at the end of the nine innings showed a loss to Somerton, there was enough brilliant ball playing by several of the players on the team to offset any discrepancy that was shown in the lack of the absence of the regular players who ran out on Manager Gorman, after the league was formed."

Coraopolis Power Deal Good Bargain for Buyer

The Borough Council of Coraopolis has increased the tax rate four mills. The borough solicitor says the increase is the direct result of selling the municipal electric power plant to the Duquesne Light Company, profit from the plant having aided in payment of borough expenses.

Profits are said to have been $50,000 a year. That amount, as the borough solicitor points out, is five per cent on $1,000,000. The plant, which the voters decided at the polls should not be sold, was turned over to the Duquesne Light Company by the Borough Council at a reported price of $250,000. The Duquesne people certainly know a bargain when they meet it face to face.

Now strict justice would say that the borough should not have used income from its power plant to pay current expenses of the municipality. A city or borough is not a business enterprise and is not supposed to pay a profit. Yet the borough would have benefited to the extent of $50,000 a year just the same had it reduced the charge for power to consumers.

Perhaps the possibility of that eventuality may have made the Duquesne Light especially eager to buy, for lower rates than those prevailing elsewhere would not look so well. To put a competitor out of the way, a large organization sometimes is willing to pay more than a property appears to be worth. As it evidently did not do so in Coraopolis, we must give the Duquesne Light Company credit for being composed of shrewd businessmen.

There are Coraopolis citizens who want them to prove it before the Federal Trade Commission.

New Railway Extension Big Thing for Pittsburgh

Permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission, granted to the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway, to construct an extension of 38 miles of track between Connellsville and Cochran's Mills, a point a few miles from Pittsburgh in the South Hills, was allowed primarily on the basis of being an extension that the present and future convenience of the public requires. This was the answer to the other carriers objecting to granting the request of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Nevertheless the new link, for it will be a link, means a great deal more than that to Pittsburgh. It means another route to Baltimore, through connection of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia with the Western Maryland at Connellsville. It means, too, a through trunk route through Pittsburgh territory between Baltimore and the Northwest by reason of Pittsburgh and West Virginia connections with the Wabash.

It means, also, competition among the carriers for traffic, a competition that should be beneficial to Pittsburgh shippers, since, as a traffic man points out, with another company looking for business, all will have to "be on their toes." But its greater meaning lies in the capacity of further developing the territory to the immediate south of Pittsburgh in an industrial way. Besides this is the impulse to business that will be occasioned by the work of construction.

The Lion and College Boys

Chains on Them Both.

The boys of Columbia University planned a novel feature for their parade to the athletic field given them by George F. Baker.

A live lion, with real mane and roar, and unmuzzled, was led in the procession, held with an iron chain of heavy links. The lion behaved well.

In some universities, where teachers explain that everything is for the best and that the thing to do is to sympathize with prosperity and not bother about the other thing, some boys are a little like that lion.

They, too, are unmuzzled, but they don't say anything. They are alive, but a chain that fetters thought leads them safely in life's procession. And they don't bother those by whom they are led.

The other kind of human "lion" would be such a man as Lincoln, able to say, "If human slavery is not wrong, nothing is wrong."

He would say that, though all the teachers and half the preachers in the world should tell him that slavery was RIGHT and that God approved it.

Lincoln did not go to college.

Education Pays

To measure the value of study in dollars is to omit some of the finer values—the widened outlook, intimacy with great minds, the consciousness of power which knowledge gives.

Yet it is important to know that one common belief about the grind is wrong. The dull pupil in school is not the one with the best chance to succeed in life.

We know that the best lawyers, doctors, engineers are ones who showed quality in school. And now the Bell Telephone system, after a survey of its own workers, shows that the youths who stood high in their school studies are also ahead in business.

President Gifford tells the details in Harper's Magazine. Of 3,800 men, 498 had graduated in the first ten of their respective classes. Twenty-five years later they had far outdistanced the ones whose class standing had been only so so.

Education pays in breadth of view, in the development of human quality. And here is proof that it also registers in the pay envelope.

HE THOUGHT THE FIRE WAS OUT

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Einstein and Gravitation

"An article of yours entitled 'In an Elevator' has caused quite a wide discussion among my friends. If Einstein's theory that gravitation is not a force but an expression of inertia is correct, why is not everything on the earth thrown off by the effects of its rotation? Is not the speed of the earth's rotation sufficient to overcome the pressure of the air? In line with this was brought up the effect of gravity in a total vacuum. One side maintained that there is no gravitational effect in vacuum, and that a man working inside a total vacuum could leave his tools suspended in space and they would not fall to the floor; the other side insisted that a vacuum has no effect on gravity. Which is right?—S. F. McDuffie, Chicago."

YOU should be scolded a little for entertaining such a notion as that the pressure of the air tends to keep bodies from flying off the earth. If the speed of rotation were sufficient to throw them off, the air would go with them. In strict fact the pressure of the air tends to lessen the weight of bodies immersed in it—but that is another story, though a very interesting one which I haven't space to tell now.

With regard to Einstein's theory, what he asserts is that the effects of inerita are EQUIVALENT to those of gravitation, and cannot be distinguished from them, as shown in the case of the apparent increase or decrease of weight in an elevator. Then he builds up, mathematically, his hypothesis that gravitation is not a "force" but an inherent property of the nondescript called "space-time." But that is something about which nobody needs to trouble his head—unless he wants to.

Now, as to gravitation in a vacuum. Here we come upon an unparalleled peculiarity of the strange force (or whatever it may be called) that causes bodies to fall to the earth and keeps the earth circling around the sun—in short the great master force of the universe. Gravitation acts equally through a vacuum and through water. It is something that cannot be screened off. Light can be screened off by the interposition of opaque matter. All kinds of radiant energy can be screened off in the same manner, not even excepting the wonderful "cosmic rays" which seem to pour from starry space. They possess marvellous penetrating power and will go through some yards of solid lead, yet they can be stopped, while gravitation cannot be stopped. Suppose you shut yourself up in a dark cellar—the light is cut off by the walls. But gravitation is not cut off by anything. It acts with undiminished power through all obstacles. A body hiding behind the earth, 8,000 miles thick, would feel the attraction of the sun's gravitative force acting through the earth just as if the earth were not there. To be sure, the earth's gravitation would be added to that of the sun, but that would be all the effect derived from putting the earth in between.

Then consider this fact: Open space outside the atmosphere is supposed to be in the condition of a total vacuum, yet the gravitative force of the earth, of the moon, of the sun, of the planets and of the stars acts without the slightest interruption across millions and trillions of miles of that stupendous interplanetary and interstellar vacuum. These are all facts of observation or deduced directly from observation, and Einstein has thrown no more real light upon their cause than Newton was able to do, and, as far as general comprehension is concerned, not half so much. Gravitation remains the prime mystery of the physical universe—thanks to Newton we can deal with its operations and predict their effects, though we know nothing whatever of its ultimate nature or cause.

Damaging the Other Car

WHAT do you do when you damage the fender of another's car while parking or getting out of a parking place?

Do you look around to see if the owner of the car is nearby and if you think he is not, drive away as rapidly as possible?

Something of a sneak, aren't you?

At least you are not a square shooter.

If you were anxious to do the right thing you would leave a note in that man's car giving your name and address.

To the man who has a conscience, running away after damaging a car brings many disturbing thoughts.

Isn't your peace of mind worth the amount it would cost you, to pay for repairs, to a car that you have damaged?

If you think about your actions afterward, you must be disgusted with yourself when you consider what a sneak you are.

If you take pride in your own car you must realize how a person feels who has had his car marred or fenders bent by another.

You would not trust a man who would run away after damaging your car.

So you can't have a good opinion of yourself if you do the same thing.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Daring

MAY I be brave as some have been
In all the ages since Earth's youth,
And may I, greatly daring, win
To shining realms of stainless Truth.

For Truth is for the brave alone,
No coward heart may claim her grace,
And only valiant souls have known
The matchless magic of her face.

May I this much of courage gain;
To keep an inner flame alight
As priests their temple fires, nor stain
The shrine for any false delight.

May I, Truth's lowest votary,
Deterred by neither scorn nor praise
Of high or low, still dare to be
None other than myself always!

Words of the Wise

A loving heart is the beginning of all knowledge—Carlyle.

That only is a disgrace to a man which he has deserved to suffer.—Phaedrus.

Be not the first by whom the new are tried,
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside. —Pope.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

A GUY can work great bluffs about a seat in a street car. Of course, in New York and other hard-boiled towns, they just don't make any bones about it at all. The men run and grab the seats, and the women make the best of it. But in smaller townsn and in the South, where there's still a lot of politeness, the men try to pretend they're reading the paper about some murder or something, and can't see the ladies.

Well, it was in Louisville, I reckon, that a guy sat reading the paper while a real pretty girl stood up in front of him. All of a sudden the guy jumps up and says, "Here, lady, please take my seat!" just like he hadn't seen her before.

"Oh, thanks!" she says, "but don't you know, I guess I won't. You see, I get off at the next stop, too."

The Happy Ending

IT WAS their first quarrel, and it lasted longer than post-honeymoon squabbles generally do. But finally it was over, and the wife was confiding to a friend.

"My dear, it was really terrible while it lasted," she said. "But I'm glad in a sense. See what a splendid present Percy gave me afterwards."

Her friend picked up the magnificent evening wrap and fondled it in ecstasy.

"Oh, how gorgeous to have a husband like that!" she cried, pointing to the gift. "That's a cloud with a silver-fox lining.

Fishy!

BROWN had been fishing for hours, but had not had even a nibble. He was fed up and just about to return home when a little fellow watching him piped out that he could tell him how to catch some fish.

"How?" asked Brown.

"Just soak the worm in a little whisky before you put it on your hook," was the lad's advice.

Brown, willing to try anything once, did as he was told, baited his hook, and threw it in the water.

In less than two minutes there was a tremendous tug and he began to reel in. Up came a 16-inch trout, not on the hook, but dead, with the worm having a strangle hold around its neck!

His Turn

THEY were playing cards in the station waiting-room. One of the players, a stranger, was getting a bad beating. Finally, he saw one of the others give himself three aces from the bottom of the pack.

He turned to the man beside him and said: "Did you see that?"

"See what?" asked the man.

"Why, that fellow dealt himself three aces from the bottom of the pack."

"Well, what about it?" asked the man. "It was his deal, wasn't it?"

Natural Enemy

SHE was taking her terrier for a run in the park and met her dearest enemy, who was wearing a wonderful new fur coat.

The little dog jumped up to greet the wearer, who cried, "Down! Down!" in an angry voice.

"Forgive my pet, darling," said his owner. "I can't teach him not to chase cats."

Oh, Daniel!

A BIG-GAME hunter in Rhodesia tracked down a lion and wounded it. The beast turned on him, beat him to the ground, and was about to finish him off when the flap of the hunter's collar turned over.

Instantly the lion bounded off into the bush.

Wondering at his miraculous escape, the hunter looked down at his collar. He saw, on the inside, his name: "Daniel!"

A Reason

IF THE mechanical power in the United States were distributed evenly, every inhabitant, we are told, would have an amount equal to the labor of 175 human slaves.

Small wonder that the Power Trust is busy!

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, June 22.—Thoughts while strolling: More towering "instep" buildings to add to the jagged skyline. Herb Roth, the caricaturist. An embarrassed youth carrying a corset form. Percy Hammond, a Cadiz (O.) boy, who made good in the city.

Giant Russian doormen who may be grand dukes or Siberian peasants. Street loafers who lean against buildings with a leering insolence. Ragged street gamins who roam in packs and raid fruit stands. Cigaret vending machines that croak "Thank you."

Defeated old men working all day as dishwashers. And walking at night to Brooklyn hall rooms. An Indian medicine show three blocks from Times Square. N. T. G., the radio announcer and Broadway night owl. But a Jersey farmer in off hours.

Old men with blue caps and gray Branigans from the river scows. Last year's ladies trying pathetically to be ever so roguish. Housewives who buy a quarter of a pound of butter, two eggs and a potato at a time. The moth-eaten tubbed trees in front of green-fronted Italian cafes.

One dollar down gold crowns. Radios until they hurt. Shoe shiners who seem always to be lounging in their doorways. A gaping crowd around a wounded bat. Listless children who drag spool boxes along the sidewalk. European medical specialists—For Men Only.

The men with pushed-back hats and busy toothpicks who exchange banter with lunch counter girls. And forget a tip. A taxi driver scouring the neighborhood for change for a $20 bill. The old optimist. Wives who lean out windows and keep an eye on coatless husbands on the stoops.

Gene Buck's canary colored motor coat. The private house speakeasy with a gray-haired woman knitting in a front window. James Gleason, the actor. A street speaker's banner: "Booze and Lose." Shoes named for movie stars. A pair of green lamps that adorn the home of an ex-mayor.

A telephone bureau that may prove a blessing to philandering husbands or wives, although that is not ostensibly its purpose, has been opened. It prevents dumbing up mysterious calls at the family hearth. For a fee a customer may be listed and have his private calls received there. When a call comes in he is notified promptly so and so wishes to speak to him. A patron may give his private bureau number only to those he wishes, or have it listed in the regular telephone directory.

There are more watches per person in New York than in any other city. All this despite the thousand and one street and building clocks all over town. Minutes are precious to New Yorkers, at least they have that idea. And while they use the clocks they want their own time pieces. Probably the most famous public clock studs the Paramount Building tower. The dials are 25 feet across, but the largest clock in midtown is the Metropolitan Tower, which is 26 feet in diameter. The largest clock in the world is visible to dwellers on the lower tip of the island, but is across the river in Jersey. This is the famous Colgate timepiece, and the dial is 50 feet in diameter. It is electrically lighted and at night detracts from the other electric wonders among those coming up the river on liners.

The New Yorker who owns the greatest watch collection is an insurance executive who possesses 181, more than half of which are of the wrist variety. He was obsessed when a lad to own a gold hunting case watch and never achieved his ambition until after he was 21. When wealth and affluence came he made up for his thwarted longings by buying the finest watches he could find from all parts of the world.

True Internationalism

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

The best thing that can happen to any virtue in the calendar is to have it demonstrated that it pays. It is much more effective help in the interest of laboring men to have the employer realize that eight hours pay better than ten, and six days in the week of labor pay better than seven, than it is to bombard this employer with altruistic speeches.

Only when the economic urge gets behind a moral idea is there much prospect of its getting over.

The greatest argument for religion in the world is that a religious man lives longer, has better health and is more efficient in every way than the irreligious one.

The best argument for prohibition is that drinkless people get a lot more work done than those who drink.

And now comes a group of financiers, English and American, who are forming a big trade body which ignores national boundaries. Its idea of a trust is not an American or English trust, but an international trust.

This is much better than issuing pamphlets showing the misery and cruelty of war or passing resolutions at Geneva or ministers' meeting about the insanity of war.

It is in the way of simply ignoring national boundaries. And why not? Business knows no frontiers. Nowadays trade is not satisfied with a less scope than the whole world, and when the business men of America begin to sit down in the same meeting with the business leaders of Engand, of France and of Germany it will do a lot more good than any League of Nations or than any resolution passed by any deliberating body.

Once show that war interferes with business and you have an argument that goes right home to men's business and bosoms.

Men are willing to dare and risk their lives a-plenty, but they are not so willing to risk their pocketbooks.

It is very refreshing to see that the pocketbook is lining up on the side of universal peace.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

SOMEONE has offered a show girl $35,000 for her dog.

At that it is cheaper than getting a woman's goat. In which case sometimes they get as high as $50,000 and they ask all the way up to a million.

Women don't chase men the way they used to. One in Hoboken the other day, chased her husband down the Lackawanna Railroad with a hatchet and tied up the train.

The judge told her a hatchet wasn't a "pleasant thing to use."

But an ax is too heavy, and there didn't happen to be a single shotgun in the house!

A woman obtaining a divorce in Los Angeles the other day, told the court that her husband went to Chili and said he was going to buy himself a harem.

He probably heard that in other lands a man could have a whole harem for what one cost here.

Mrs. Harry Hyman of New York in suing for divorce, said that her husband wanted his wife for a social background and "the other woman" for a "tonic."

Which the doctors recommend every spring.

"Mothers seem to have lost all control of their daughters," says Dean Adele Bildersee of Hunter College.

"Girls seem to have lost all control of their parents," says Jean Blake of Texas, whose grandmother ran away with her mother's fiance.

Thomas Hayes of Los Angeles says his wife deserted him and took all the chickens, leaving him an old rooster for company.

Just off of the male sex entirely!

A woman crosses the Atlantic in a plane in 20 hours. Another woman swimming 38 hours and still going strong.

Other women dance over 300 hours.

The sex that is weaker wears pants and neckties.
